By JAMES MCKAY
Associated Press Writer

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Flood waters from swollen mountain creeks have receded, leaving many persons dead, thousands homeless and a devastated landscape in the valleys around this southwestern Pennsylvania steel town.

Civil Defense officials today said there were 32 confirmed dead. They had earlier reported 37 dead. Officials blamed the mistake on the difficulties of communicating with the flood-stricken area.

There were widespread reports of persons missing and presumed dead, but communications were erratic and rescue efforts were delayed by deep water.

Civil Defense officials estimated 2,000 persons were homeless in Cambria County alone. It was not known how many were dislodged elsewhere.

It was the third major flood in 88 years in Johnstown, whose name became synonymous with disaster after the Johnstown Flood of 1889 killed 2,200 people.

Then, as in this week's tragedy and in the flood of March 17, 1936, when 20 people died, the steep green valleys channeled mountain runoff into the Conemaugh River and Little Stony Creek and created sudden, killing thrusts of churning water.

In the 1889 flood, the earthen South Fork dam broke 14 miles upstream, and the water — with nowhere to go to vent its power — was still a raging wall of death when it arrived in Johnstown 57 minutes later.

"It all happened so fast, too fast, and then it seemed like it would never end," said pregnant Elaine Mitchell, who narrowly escaped the high water Wednesday.

A temporary morgue was set up at East Hills Elementary School just outside the city.

The flooding struck in Bedford, Cambria, Clearfield, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset and Westmoreland counties. About 8.5 inches of rain fell between about 9 p.m. Tuesday and 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Crawford County, some 100 miles to the northwest of the Johnstown area, suffered flash flooding and heavy damage when it received about four inches of rain in the same period.

The Laurel Run Dam north of Johnstown broke and washed out 10 houses downstream. At least 25 persons were reported missing in West Taylor Township.

Carl Thomas, 59, an asphalt plant superintendent, said he had found the body of his brother-in-law, but his sister, brother and sister-in-law, their four children and a granddaughter were still missing.

Thomas' 80-year-old mother had a stroke prior to the flood. "We don't know how to tell her," he said.

Gov. Milton Shapp toured the area by helicopter with U.S. Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., and declared an extreme state of emergency.

Many victims spent Wednesday night in emergency centers set up in fire halls and college dormitories.

"We're putting people wherever we can find a place for them," said L.B. Towsey, a member of the state Civil Defense Council.

The rain came from a storm that hung over the area as people slept.

"That thunderstorm didn't move last night. I watched it sit there on the radar for six or seven hours," said a spokesman for the National Weather Service.

By nightfall, the swollen streams had returned to their banks and cleanup operations appeared ready to begin.

Shapp and Heinz asked the White House for federal disaster relief.

"The damage is devastating," Heinz said. "It is easily in excess of $100 million with roads destroyed and trucks tossed around like matchsticks."

Two National Guard battalions were activated to help with the rescue and cleanup. One of their first missions was to stop looting in Johnstown.

"Some of the looters swam across streets to get to the merchandise first," said Mary Zallar, 31, a Johnstown Tribune-Democrat copy editor.

Authorities said the looting subsided after Mayor Herbert Pfuhr Jr. directed police to shoot looters if necessary.

Jaworski New Probe Leader

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski says he will tolerate no interference in an investigation of the alleged Korean influence-buying scandal on Capitol Hill. And he wants it in writing.

The House ethics committee is expected to accept Jaworski's terms today, handing him the job of chief investigator in the disorganized investigation of South Korean efforts to win congressional support by plying lawmakers with money and gifts.

At a news conference Wednesday in Houston, where he has been in private practice since resigning as Watergate prosecutor, Jaworski said he plans to begin work on the investigation on Aug. 15.

"If there is the slightest effort to suppress the investigation, I would not only go to the leadership of the Congress, I would go to the public."

"I don't think it is the leadership of Congress that controls this. What controlled Watergate was the public reaction," said Jaworski.

Jaworski said the promises of independence in the new post would be made official in a congressional resolution before he "came out of the woodwork, so to speak" to take the new job.

Jaworski said the absence of a grand jury in the Korean investigation may make it difficult to obtain certain information. But he added, "I think I will get what I want."

Jaworski was the special Watergate prosecutor who forced public disclosure of so-called "smoking gun" tape that forced former President Richard M. Nixon to resign on Aug. 9, 1974.

On the tape Nixon was heard agreeing with aides that the FBI should be given a false story to steer it away from campaign contributions that were to prove the Watergate burglars were Nixon campaign workers.

Jaworski telephoned Rep. John

Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the House ethics committee to discuss arrangements for taking the new job. The wealthy lawyer said he would serve without pay.

He is replacing Philip A. Lacovara, a former deputy Watergate prosecutor who quit last week after a dispute with Flynt.

Flynt said Jaworski's only requests were that the independence agreement be put in writing and that his law partner, Peter White, be named as special deputy counsel.

Flynt also said he had satisfied himself that neither Jaworski nor his Washington law office have any clients or accounts that might present a conflict of interest with the Korean investigation.

But one committee member, Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., said Jaworski's law firm had lobbied on Capitol Hill on one bill several weeks ago. He said he wants more information on other lobbying by Jaworski's firm.

Consumer Prices Rise Again

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher costs for food and a broad range of services pushed June consumer prices up six-tenths of 1 per cent, matching the previous month's boost in prices, the government reported today.

The rise was a disappointment to government economists who had hoped some moderation in consumer prices would follow a slowdown in wholesale price hikes in May and a sharp wholesale price drop in June.

Retail food prices, which climbed seven-tenths of 1 per cent in May, rose by eight-tenths of 1 per cent in June and marked the sixth straight month of sharp increases in the cost of food.

The government planned to release a second report on the nation's economic health later today and it was expected to be more encouraging. A preliminary estimate from the Commerce Department indicated the economy had another strong quarter, with the Gross National Product growing in the April-June period at about the same rate as the first quarter's 6.9 per cent rate.

Wholesale prices — a precursor of costs a consumer eventually faces — fell seven-tenths of a per cent in June after several months of steep increases. The drop was the first since last August and was largely the result of a 6.3 per cent decline in prices of farm products.

Changes in the wholesale food prices are usually reflected at grocery counters within a few weeks but this has not been the case so far for the June decline. The Labor Department said a large part of the June increase in retail food prices was caused by higher prices for processed foods such as dairy products, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, sugar, bakery products and coffee.

While the six-tenths per cent increase in consumer prices was relatively steep for one month, it was less than the eight-tenths of 1 per cent rise in April and January and the 1 per cent jump in February.

Over the past three months, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 8.1 per cent, down from the 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter of the year.

The Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index last month stood at 181.8 per cent of its 1967 average, meaning that a market-basket of goods and services which cost $100 ten years ago now cost $181.80 last month.

The Consumer Price Index is based on a selection of 400 different goods and services believed to represent the marketbasket of the average urban worker who heads a family of four.

In a separate report, the government said that real spendable earnings — after-tax earnings adjusted for inflation — increased 3.4 per cent in June, the largest monthly increase in two years.

The increase resulted from a change in tax deductions which lowered withholding rates effective June 1.

Over the year, real earnings rose 3.3 per cent as a result of both the reduction in taxes and a three-tenths of a per cent increase in weekly earnings over and about any inflationary increase in them.

Carter-Begin Talks Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin are in agreement on a Mideast peace conference to be held this fall and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will personally seek Arab participation.

Begin concluded his talks with Carter on Wednesday after proposing a peace plan that would provide for Israeli withdrawals from some former Arab lands. The two leaders also agreed to a Geneva peace conference, to be held in October, and Begin received a partially positive response to his requests for new U.S. arms.

Some Arab capitals already have rejected the Begin peace formula and Carter said he would send Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to the Middle East on Aug. 1 to try to talk Egypt, Syria and Jordan into joining the Geneva conference.

Informed sources said the United States is expected to announce it is giving Israel about $100 million to fund mass-production of the Israeli-built Chariot tank, plus armed hydrofoils for its navy and other unspecified military hardware.

But the sources said Washington gave Israel no final answer on its request for permission to co-produce F16 jet planes at its aviation industries near Tel Aviv. The Israelis badly want such a deal, but the sources said that at best the United States would sell Israel about 100 F16s direct from U.S. manufacturers.

Begin disclosed the peace plan he brought to Carter, telling a news conference that it consisted of:

—Readiness to negotiate with Egypt,

Jordan, Syria and possibly Lebanon for full peace treaties without pre-conditions. By pre-conditions, said Begin, he meant Egypt's demand that Israel promise, before talks begin, to vacate all captured land.

—Establishment of joint committees, each consisting of Israel and one Arab state, to actually negotiate the treaties.

—Exclusion of the Palestine Liberation Organization, "whose aim is to destroy Israel," from negotiations, but to allow Palestinian delegates to join a Jordanian delegation, provided they are not PLO members.

—Readiness to negotiate on neutral ground outside Geneva, or indirectly through a U.S. mediator, if the Arabs were unable to attend Geneva without the PLO.

Begin's formula differed from that of previous Israeli governments in that he refused to say whether he would offer to trade captured Arab land for peace.

Unofficial reports here and in Jerusalem say Begin would exchange parts of the Sinai Desert and Golan Heights for peace treaties with Egypt and Syria, but would hold onto the West Bank of the Jordan River while giving its 700,000 Arab residents autonomy.

This clashes with the U.S. view that Israel must give up virtually all captured Arab land in exchange for peace. But Carter refused to restate this approach, saying the time had come "to be reticent" and allow the adversaries to negotiate among themselves.

Cairo radio quoted a military spokesman as saying that 30 Libyan army trucks were destroyed and 12 members of the 9th Libyan armored division were taken prisoner along with 30 saboteurs.

Today's clash climaxed a series of border incidents in recent days. Egypt has accused Libya of planting a series of bombs and conducting other sabotage in Egypt.

The two countries have contended for influence in the Arab world, leading to confrontations in Lebanon and the Horn of Africa.

Since the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, they have quarreled over how to approach that conflict. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has urged reconvening a Mideast conference in Geneva while Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has opposed compromise with Israel.

Libya had no immediate comment on the reported fighting.

Israel radio's Mideastern affair analyst, Dob Yinon, reported earlier that fighting had broken out and Egypt had put warplanes into the battle. He did not cite sources.

The report said tension along the Egypt-Libya border escalated in the past few days and Egyptian planes bombed Libyan troops that had been brought up to defend the border.

The two nations massed troops at their border in the past but the confrontations had not led to large-scale fighting. An Israeli government source said the African country of Togo recently tried to mediate their dispute but was unsuccessful.

The two nations have differed over the Lebanese civil war and are currently competing for influence in the Sudan and Chad.

Early this morning the government reported that the consumer price index rose 0.6 per cent in June, matching the 7.2 per cent annual rate of the previous month.

Today's prices included NCR, up 1/4 at 42 1/2; Humana, off 1/4 at 19 1/2; Sterling Drug, down 1/4 at 14, and Caterpillar Tractor, 1/4 lower at 54 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.21 to 920.48, extending its gain over the last four sessions to 17.49 points.

OMVI Charged Reduced To Recklessness

The driving while intoxicated charge against James Ford, former Circleville police officer, was reduced to reckless operation Wednesday in Lancaster Municipal Court.

Judge Joseph Ralston fined Ford $100 and costs, suspended his drivers license for 30 days and ordered him to attend an alcoholic program.

The former patrolman was charged May 26 for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was discharged at that time from the police force. On June 28 Circleville Municipal Court Judge O. Charles Hosterman granted Ford a change of venue to the Lancaster court.

Security In Communication System Lax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Security for a nationwide communications system linked to government computers is so poor that a private insurance company could file false claims for federal welfare checks and go undetected, federal auditors say.

Thirty-three federal agencies have 2,190 terminals on the Advanced Record System, which auditors from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said has serious weaknesses.

"Security procedures and controls over data transmitted through the ARS network need to be strengthened to prevent use of the system for unauthorized purposes," an audit said.

The communications system, run by the General Services Administration, receives messages from agencies' terminals and sends them to their proper designations.

For instance, a claim for Supplemental Security Income, federal welfare for the aged, is filed at a local Social Security office. The request for payment would be typed on a terminal and transmitted to the computer system, which in turn would send it to the Social Security computer in Baltimore.

But the system cannot tell which terminal is sending a message. A deliberate attempt to disguise a terminal's identity can succeed.

The auditors used a terminal in Washington, but not a Social Security terminal, to test the system with requests for Supplemental Security Income claims directed at the main Social Security computer.

"We found that the SSA computer rejected the messages when the sending terminal's (codes) were used. However, when the (codes) of an SSA field office were used, the message was accepted and the ... claim was established and processed for payment," the audit said.

The audit, released by Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., did not say fraudulent claims had been entered in this manner, only that it could be done.

Two Smith Bridges In Maine Town

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Retired U.S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith on Wednesday became the first person in Maine history to have two bridges in the same town named after her.

Before signing the bill naming the new bridges in her hometown of Skowhegan, Gov. James B. Longley presented Mrs. Smith with a longstemmed red rose. A rose was her trademark in the Senate, where she served from 1949 to 1973.

Longley also proclaimed Wednesday as Margaret Chase Smith Day.

The bridges are located in the town where Mrs. Smith grew up.

Mrs. Smith served 8 1/2 years in the U.S. House before being elected to the Senate, and is the only woman to have been elected to both chambers.

Kroger Co. Accused Of Deceptive Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission on Wednesday accused the Kroger food chain of using a deceptive and misleading advertising program.

In a formal complaint calling for an administrative inquiry, the FTC specifically cited a program known as "Kroger Price Control."

The Kroger Co., based in Cincinnati, Ohio, immediately denied the charges. Kroger operates 1,250 retail food stores in 20 states and was the third largest retail food chain in the country in 1975.

The FTC noted that the "Price Patrol" compares, on a weekly basis, the prices of the products of Kroger's competitors with Kroger's prices for approximately 150 items. The results of the comparison, it said, are advertised in the format of tables reflecting the number of Kroger's prices which are "lower than, higher than, or the same as" the competitors' prices.

The complaint alleged that the ads are false and deceptive because, among other reasons, "... Kroger failed to disclose the material fact that meat, produce and house brands are not included in the Price Patrol Survey ..."

It also charged that Kroger's survey is not methodologically sound.

Wallace C. Snyder, acting assistant director for national advertising of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said the complaint reflects "... a general concern that the advertising of survey results can have a significant effect on consumers' purchasing decisions and, therefore, that these surveys must be done fairly and in a reliable manner, and their limitations should be made clear to consumers."

The FTC issues a complaint when it determines that the law may have been violated, and that a proceeding is in the public interest.

In responding to the complaint, Kroger officials noted that it was issued by a 3-2 commission vote.

"These allegations will be acted upon after hearings in which we will present our side of the story," the company said in a statement late Wednesday. "We intend to defend our position vigorously. We are confident that the final decision will vindicate our program."

Arson Reported

The Circleville Police Department is investigating a report of arson at 328 E. Ohio St. The investigation marks the second report of arson in the area in three days.

According to the report filed by Ptl. Ron Thompson, the police department was notified of a small blaze at the rear of 328 E. Ohio St. The Circleville Fire Department was summoned to the scene and found a small fire that had been nearly extinguished by the two men who discovered it burning.

The report states that a bottle was found in the immediate vicinity with a rag inserted in the bottle. The bottle had an odor of gasoline.

Very little damage was done to the building, according to the report.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were little changed today, levelling off after a foursession rally.

Gainers held a very small lead over losers in early trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials hovered around Wednesday's closing point.

Early this morning the government reported that the consumer price index rose 0.6 per cent in June, matching the 7.2 per cent annual rate of the previous month.

The news came as a bit of a disappointment to Wall Streeters who had been hoping for signs of a letup in inflation.

Today's prices included NCR, up 1/4 at 42 1/2; Humana, off 1/4 at 19 1/2; Sterling Drug, down 1/4 at 14, and Caterpillar Tractor, 1/4 lower at 54 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.21 to 920.48, extending its gain over the last four sessions to 17.49 points.

Gaining and losing issues were about evenly matched on the NYSE

Big Board volume reached 29.38 million shares, against Tuesday's 1977 high of 31.93 million.

The NYSE's composite index lost .03 to 55.73.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .83 at 123.38.

OMVI Charged Reduced To Recklessness

The driving while intoxicated charge against James Ford, former Circleville police officer, was reduced to reckless operation Wednesday in Lancaster Municipal Court.

Judge Joseph Ralston fined Ford $100 and costs, suspended his drivers license for 30 days and ordered him to attend an alcoholic program.

The former patrolman was charged May 26 for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was discharged at that time from the police force. On June 28 Circleville Municipal Court Judge O. Charles Hosterman granted Ford a change of venue to the Lancaster court.

Security In Communication System Lax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Security for a nationwide communications system linked to government computers is so poor that a private insurance company could file false claims for federal welfare checks and go undetected, federal auditors say.

Thirty-three federal agencies have 2,190 terminals on the Advanced Record System, which auditors from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said has serious weaknesses.

"Security procedures and controls over data transmitted through the ARS network need to be strengthened to prevent use of the system for unauthorized purposes," an audit said.

The communications system, run by the General Services Administration, receives messages from agencies' terminals and sends them to their proper destinations.

For instance, a claim for Supplemental Security Income, federal welfare for the aged, is filed at a local Social Security office. The request for payment would be typed on a terminal and transmitted to the computer system, which in turn would send it to the Social Security computer in Baltimore.

But the system cannot tell which terminal is sending a message. A deliberate attempt to disguise a terminal's identity can succeed.

"We found that the SSA computer rejected the messages when the sending terminal's (codes) were used. However, when the (codes) of an SSA field office were used, the message was accepted and the ... claim was established and processed for payment," the audit said.

The audit, released by Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., did not say fraudulent claims had been entered in this manner, only that it could be done.

Kroger Co. Accused Of Deceptive Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission on Wednesday accused the Kroger food chain of using a deceptive and misleading advertising program.

In a formal complaint calling for an administrative inquiry, the FTC specifically cited a program known as "Kroger Price Control."

The Kroger Co., based in Cincinnati, Ohio, immediately denied the charges. Kroger operates 1,250 retail food stores in 20 states and was the third largest retail food chain in the country in 1975.

The FTC noted that the "Price Patrol" compares, on a weekly basis, the prices of the products of Kroger's competitors with Kroger's prices for approximately 150 items. The results of the comparison, it said, are advertised in the format of tables reflecting the number of Kroger's prices which are "lower than, higher than, or the same as" the competitors' prices.

The complaint alleged that the ads are false and deceptive because, among other reasons, "... Kroger failed to disclose the material fact that meat, produce and house brands are not included in the Price Patrol Survey."

It also charged that Kroger's survey is not methodologically sound.

Wallace C. Snyder, acting assistant director for national advertising of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said the complaint reflects "... a general concern that the advertising of survey results can have a significant effect on consumers' purchasing decisions and, therefore, that these surveys must be done fairly and in a reliable manner, and their limitations should be made clear to consumers."

The FTC issues a complaint when it determines that the law may have been violated, and that a proceeding is in the public interest.

In responding to the complaint, Kroger officials noted that it was issued by a 3-2 commission vote.

"These allegations will be acted upon after hearings in which we will present our side of the story," the company said in a statement late Wednesday. "We intend to defend our position vigorously. We are confident that the final decision will vindicate our program."

Arson Reported

The Circleville Police Department is investigating a report of arson at 328 E. Ohio St. The investigation marks the second report of arson in the area in three days.

According to the report filed by Ptl. Ron Thompson, the police department was notified of a small blaze at the rear of 328 E. Ohio St. The Circleville Fire Department was summoned to the scene and found a small fire that had been nearly extinguished by the two men who discovered it burning.

The report states that a bottle was found in the immediate vicinity with a rag inserted in the bottle. The bottle had an odor of gasoline.

Very little damage was done to the building, according to the report.

North Central Ohio Has Many Highlights For Tour

Editors Note: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club for Circleville Herald.

If you wonder what life was like in Ohio in the mid-19th century, your opportunity to experience it first hand would be to take a ride on the St. Helena II. The St. Helena II takes daily jaunts along the Tuscarawas River. Most anytime the north central Ohio region teems with things to do. And year around, Canton, Massillon and Wooster attract people of all ages and all interests.

One of the outstanding attractions in Canton is the professional Football Hall of Fame, which houses over a half century of football memorabilia and outlines the history of the major leagues. Throughout the major exhibition areas, visitors to the Hall of Fame can test their football knowledge on question and answer boards. Selective slide projectors, taped voice recordings and rear-view movie projectors tell the story of this American-born sport.

Another Canton attraction is Mother Goose Land—a special treat for the youngsters—with 20 exhibits of fairytale characters, a real steam engine, a stage coach, a 22-foot high concrete whale and an irresistible playground.

President McKinley's burial place is in Canton and is marked with a 20-acre memorial. The Canton, Ohio president is honored as well at the Stark County Historical Center has been developed into a cultural and educational facility, housing also the Hall of Science and Industry, the Historical Museum, the Hoover-Price Planetarium, the Health Education Center, Everhard Auditorium, and Ramsayer Library.

West of Canton, in Massillon, the unique setting for Massillon Museum, is the former house of the city's founder, James Duncan. The museum presents historical, scientific and art exhibits. Massillon is also the home of the National Shrine of St. Dymphna.

The city of Wooster first developed around an army headquarters and land office built during the War of 1812. Some of the many people attracted to the area just stayed on after the war and became permanent settlers. Local history has been documented in the Wayne County Historical Museum. A log cabin constructed during the Civil War still stands on the grounds of the museum as well as a schoolhouse built in 1873. Some Wooster historians claim that it was in their town that the German emigrant, August Ingard, first introduced the Christmas tree to America in 1847.

Wooster is the site of the Ohio Agriculture and Research Development Center, the Center's nature preserve, Secrest Arboretum and also of Gay Acres, the third largest horse breeding farm in the country.

To visit the North Central Ohio region from Circleville, north on U.S. 23 to I-270; west on I-270 to I-71; north on I-71 to U.S. 30; east on U.S. 30 to Canton.

Fighter Is Dancer

BUCKHEAD, Ga. (AP) — Jerry Rhome, a 21-year-old professional karate fighter, gets a kick out of dancing.

Rhyme takes dance lessons from Terri Griffin, a 19-year-old Georgia State University student.

"Kicking is very important in karate because people like to see kicks, and in order to kick, you have to be flexible. And who is more flexible than a dancer? So I went to Terri for help," he explained.

Miss Griffin, this year's miss Black Georgia, intends to become a professional entertainer some day, and she says that the benefits have been mutual. She has devised new dance steps for numbers she choreographs for herself and children after watching Rhome's karate moves, she said.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

"Summertime Is Fun Time At The Library" whether you're coming to the daily program now going on in the children's room or just stopping by to pick up a book about your favorite cool corner.

Next week is going to be having some very exciting happenings in your special room at the Pickaway Public Library so mark the following events on your calendar:

Betsy Hammer believes that children like to become involved with music and dramas rather than passively watch and listen. Children who attend the program at the Pickaway County District Public Library 10 a.m. Wednesday will find out just how much fun music can be as they join with her in creative dramatics and movement to music. All school age children of the community are invited.

Betsy Hammer is completing her degree in Music Education at Ohio University in Athens where she has worked for four years with the Athens Children's Theater and as music specialist for Hocking Valley Day School. She is a singer and song writer, and she plays guitar, piano, accordion, and recorder.

Jeanne Townsend will be the guest storyteller at the Pickaway County District Public Library on July 28 at 10 a.m.

Ms. Townsend is the librarian at the Waverly High School and before coming to Pike County, she had wide experience in elementary schools in her home state of Alabama. She enjoys working with groups of children and uses stories, songs, games, and often films and other visual media in her programs. "Summertime Is Fun Time at the Library," the theme for this series of library programs, is one that she heartily endorses.

The Pickaway County District Public Library in cooperation with Ohio Valley Area Libraries, a regional system of libraries in ten southeastern counties, is sponsoring a series of summer programs which includes story-telling, films, and musical activities.

Student Paid For Graffiti

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Graffiti on restroom walls is a hallowed school tradition, but principals don't usually pay pupils to do it.

But in Phoenix, Encanto Elementary School principal Anna Maie Murphy has put up a help-wanted sign for restroom decorators.

Bennett Conklin, 14, answered the ad and now spends his days perched on a stepladder in the boys' restroom at the school, painting a multicolored mural of Chevy vans, Ford pickups, dune buggies and assorted funky vehicles.

Bennett said the job was a natural since he hopes to become a commercial artist or architect.

"Whenever I'm in school, I always draw in class, even when I'm not supposed to," he said.

He said the school is paying him $20 for the project.

The principal said she hopes the art will discourage vandalism.

More Capital Needed

Calling capital spending a "key weak spot" in the nation's economic recovery, the Business Roundtable — composed of influential business leaders — has called on the federal government for major tax reform to provide added capital incentives.

The alternative, the group warns, could be an economy in which unemployment, inflation and trade deficits become chronic problems. Citing various studies, including one Treasury

Department survey which found the United States lagging behind most of the major industrial nations in rates of business investment and productivity growth, the businessmen indicated more than cosmetic treatments were needed to correct the deficiencies.

Following up on its overall conclusions, the group also prepared nine position papers on specific tax reforms, any or all of which it said should help provide a better capital foundation. But beyond tax reform, the panel said it found business hesitant to invest in new ventures or modernize old ones because of a climate of uncertainty caused by energy problems, government regulation and other inhibiting factors.

It should not be necessary in a capitalist country to point out the value of adequate capital investment. Recent economic performance indicates the Roundtable's concern is a timely one.

Stable Thinking

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — "For the first time in hundreds of years, anybody who's saved a reasonable sum of money can go out and have the thrill of owning his own thoroughbred race horse."

"Just think about that," says Moreton Binn, in a voice awash with wonder — "Seattle Slew," who wins the Triple Crown, picked up for $17,500 by a lumber-yard owner and an ex-airline stewardess. Only a few years ago, there was no price you could pay for a horse like that. It was a locked-in industry, with the Vanderbilts and Whitneys and the rest breeding their own stock. The only horses you or I could buy were second or third ilk. And it cost just as much to bed and board a second-string horse as a champion, so you had to be a little crazy."

"But in the last few years," says Binn, "property values skyrocketed and the moneyed families started to break up their holdings. The original horse farm owners died and their offspring began to say, 'I don't need all these farms and horses. It's like breeding rabbits.' The children of the very wealthy people just didn't have the same passionate interest in the breed, and they began selling off to other breeders — the kind of breeders who wanted to make money by selling of horses."

As a result, after centuries, the Sport of Kings has come down to the people. "Even I," says Moreton Binn, "can have a string of 16 thoroughbreds."

Even he. Well, 41-year-old Binn is hardly an "average man." Sometimes referred to as The Barter Baron or The King of the Swappers, he is chairman and chief executive officer of Atwood-Richards, Inc., the largest and oldest of the reciprocal trade companies in America, with offices in New York and Chicago, Beverly Hills and Toronto.

Under his direction, the firm arranges the exchange of products and services among large firms — a fleet of automobiles or airplanes, for example, bartered for TV time or hotel space. It is a complex business, based on the principle that every company has an excess, whether it is an excess of 1976 toaster ovens or of green velvet sofas, and that they would rather trade away their excess for something they need (such as TV commercial time or hotel convention rooms) rather than diminish their cash flow by paying money for the needed commodity.

"To put it as simply as possible," says Binn, "a chair manufacturer with an excess of unsold chairs sells me those chairs, and I trade them to a chain of hotels, who in exchange will trade me room credits, which I may then trade to a television network for convention use, and in exchange I get TV advertising time, which can be bartered to..."

That's the way it works and, in one of Atwood-Richards' complicated barter arrangements, Moreton Binn acquired his first thoroughbred race horse.

"It seemed appropriate," he says

with a smile. "All my life, I had been trading. It started when I traded for all the Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams bubble-gum cards in my block, and then everyone would have to come to me to complete their sets — and I could lay down all the rules. I once traded a single DiMaggio for a pair of roller skates and three bags of marbles. So I was always a horse trader, without a horse. And now, at last, I had a horse."

It was a thrill and, being an entrepreneur at heart, Moreton Binn quickly began going to the yearling sales and acquiring more thoroughbreds, until now he has a string of 16 race horses. (Eight are two-year-olds, and each of them bears his name: Barter-Binn, Where-You-Binn, Coal-Binn, etc.)

With the logic of the would-be millionaire, Moreton then built himself a horse farm on Long Island for three-quarters-of-a-million dollars; it is the largest facility in the state of New York for the training, boarding and rehabilitation of thoroughbreds — with the two training tracks that exactly duplicate the racing surface of the top tracks like Belmont and Saratoga, and it has a swimming pool for horses that permits them to keep their upper torsos in racing form while soothing sore ankles. He calls it Pen-Mor Farms, blending his name and that of his wife, Penny, a psychologist. "And our racing silks are pink and red, the colors we were married in. We thought that was a nice, sentimental, lucky decision, but Steve Cauthen (the country's hottest jockey) won't ride for us. 'Are you crazy,' he says. 'Me riding around a track in pink?'"

Binn feels that in the next few years, more and more salaried Americans are going to be investing in race horses, because they are now available to the general public, and because "there is a basic long-loved relationship between man and horse. And the thrill of watching your own horse run is quite unlike any other."

He hopes that, once the Sport of Kings is truly the Sport of Average Men, the Thoroughbred Racing Association will change its present illogical rules... "When you want to drive an automobile, you learn how to do it, and get your driver's license, and then you buy a car. But not in the horse business. In the horse business, you have to buy a horse and then make application to race it: they check your financial position, they put you through the Benevolent association to find if you're a kind person, they step all over you and then, if you don't pass, you're stuck with thousands of dollars worth of horse and no chance to race it."

Palestinian Youth Claims Beating At Hands Of Israelis

Kaddar, 19, claimed he had been beaten by police during an anti-Israeli demonstration in Ramallah on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River last March. Israeli authorities said the youth's allegation might be true.

Kaddar told a reporter he also was insulted, made to drink water that had been used to wash floors, forced to curse his mother and Allah, and kicked in the groin. The Israelis said these charges were lies.

"It sometimes happens that things get out of hand, especially when the demonstrators are throwing rocks," a source in the Israeli military occupation government said. "But we would have no reason to do those other things."

Sami Kaddar's complaint, as far as is known, was never investigated, but his story illustrates a dilemma for Israel. Allegations of brutality and torture by Israeli prison wardens, riot police and intelligence interrogators have stung the conscience of the nation.

Israelis claim that they run the most benevolent occupation in history, and are trying to introduce democracy to a people who always lived under absolute rulers.

At the same time, the Israelis say, they must defend themselves against organized terrorists who operate in secret.

How Israel handles this delicate situation is coming under increasing scrutiny and dispute.

The most damaging charges came in a four-page article by the London Sunday Times last month. It cited at length three cases of Arabs who claimed they were beaten, sexually assaulted, given electrical shocks or put in darkened cells the size of broom closets for long periods to obtain confessions.

In an unusual step for a government which often shrugs off attacks by the press, the Foreign Ministry published what it called a case-by-case rebuttal, and accused the Sunday Times of printing half-truths and distortions.

Hare Krishna Group Will Defend Selves

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — They may be vegetarians, but members of a Hare Krishna religious commune here say they are not afraid to use arms to defend themselves.

"We don't believe in causing violence, but if violence comes, we're prepared," said Kirtanananda Swami, founder of the nine-year-old commune.

The latest in a four-year history of disputes involving the commune came last weekend when authorities say two men drove through the 1,000-acre commune in a pickup truck, firing shots.

Four armed commune members chased and stopped the truck, police said. The two men in the pickup were charged with firing a weapon within 500 feet of a building and the four commune members were charged with having loaded firearms in a vehicle, according to Marshall County sheriff's deputies.

"For simply apprehending them, why should we be arrested?" the swami asked.

"If we had wanted to blow them away, we could have blown them away," he said of the men in the truck. The swami said that Lord Krishna, or God, says that war is sometimes necessary.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I recall that you once wrote about drugs that can dissolve gallbladder stones. Was this just a passing idea, or has it been used successfully?

Mr. H. A., Pa.

When the first studies were made and there seemed to be some possibility of dissolving gallbladder stones, an extensive study program was begun.

Ten medical centers around the country are collaborating to determine the safety and the benefits of the drug, chenodeoxycholic, for dissolving these stones. Almost one thousand patients are being studied. This particular program has two more years to run.

The preliminary data show no side effects and the benefits are already demonstrable.

It is believed that if these early findings are upheld, thousands of gallbladder operations for the removal of stones will be unnecessary. This is particularly important because almost half a million gallbladder operations are performed yearly in the United States alone.

At what age should the application of braces to the teeth be considered?

Mrs. F. F., La.

There is no established rule that gives the exact age at which orthodontia should be started. Each case is individually evaluated. Irregularly spaced teeth, crooked teeth, teeth that are "bunched up" and affect the normal growth of the jaw demand careful inspection by the dentist, who

Market Analyst Says Sell Corn

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — "Sell it quickly," is the advice being offered to farmers still holding stocks of last year's corn.

"Clean out the bins and get it done in the next three weeks," James Gill, market analyst for the Illinois Farm Bureau, told more than 400 members of the National Corn Growers Association. "It is bite the bullet time."

"Time is fleeting," Gill added. "The new crop is coming on fast."

The analyst said farmers also have the option of processing their carryover corn through feeder cattle or pigs. "Or you can carry over to next year, again," he said. "But because of the loss of quality and other factors... I just don't think it is wise."

There is a 2.35-billion-bushel carry over of feed grains including corn from the huge 1976 harvest, Gill said. Assuming the USDA estimate of this year's crop remains accurate, there could be as much as 1.3 billion bushels of corn left over this year, along with huge stocks of wheat.

then consults with an orthodontist, a specialist in this field.

Many parents, unfortunately, delay seeking the combined advice of the dentist and the specialist, thus converting a simple problem into a complex one. X-ray studies and cast models of the total tooth structure reveal much information about the proper development of the teeth, the jaw and the bite.

When parents recognize the need early, it may reduce considerably the time duration for the use of braces.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... After a severe infection and after surgery, patients should indulge themselves with a little extra time for convalescence. In the long run, less time will be wasted by chronic invalidism.

Dear Editor:

I'd like to thank the Pickaway County Commissioners for their interest in the mental retardation program and for the allocation of $43,334 of the Public Works Funds to the Brooks-Yates School for construction of one new classroom and renovation of the restrooms.

It was a very difficult decision for them since the total allocation to Pickaway County was insufficient to fund totally any project. Their decision to divide the funds equally between the applicants was finalized only after considering the numerous factors involved very carefully and deliberately. A Page Of Opinion

Calling capital spending a "key weak spot" in the nation's economic recovery, the Business Roundtable — composed of influential business leaders — has called on the federal government for major tax reform to provide added capital incentives.

The alternative, the group warns, could be an economy in which unemployment, inflation and trade deficits become chronic problems. Citing various studies, including one Treasury

Department survey which found the United States lagging behind most of the major industrial nations in rates of business investment and productivity growth, the businessmen indicated more than cosmetic treatments were needed to correct the deficiencies.

Following up on its overall conclusions, the group also prepared nine position papers on specific tax reforms, any or all of which it said should help provide a better capital foundation. But beyond tax reform, the panel said it found business hesitant to invest in new ventures or modernize old ones because of a climate of uncertainty caused by energy problems, government regulation and other inhabiting factors.

It should not be necessary in a capitalist country to point out the value of adequate capital investment. Recent economic performance indicates the Roundtable's concern is a timely one.

Stable Thinking

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — "For the first time in hundreds of years, anybody who's saved a reasonable sum of money can go out and have the thrill of owning his own thoroughbred race horse."

"Just think about that," says Moreton Binn, in a voice awash with wonder — "Seattle Slew," who wins the Triple Crown, picked up for $17,500 by a lumber-yard owner and an ex-airline stewardess. Only a few years ago, there was no price you could pay for a horse like that. It was a locked-in industry, with the Vanderbilts and Whitneys and the rest breeding their own stock. The only horses you or I could buy were second or third ilk. And it cost just as much to bed and board a second-string horse as a champion, so you had to be a little crazy.

"But in the last few years," says Binn, "property values skyrocketed and the moneyed families started to break up their holdings. The original horse farm owners died and their offspring began to say, 'I don't need all these farms and horses. It's like breeding rabbits.' The children of the very wealthy people just didn't have the same passionate interest in the breed, and they began selling off to other breeders — the kind of breeders who wanted to make money by selling of horses."

As a result, after centuries, the Sport of Kings has come down to the people. "Even I," says Moreton Binn, "can have a string of 16 thoroughbreds."

Even he. Well, 41-year-old Binn is hardly an "average man." Sometimes referred to as The Barter Baron or The King of the Swappers, he is chairman and chief executive officer of Atwood-Richards, Inc., the largest and oldest of the reciprocal trade companies in America, with offices in New York and Chicago, Beverly Hills and Toronto.

Under his direction, the firm arranges the exchange of products and services among large firms — a fleet of automobiles or airplanes, for example, bartered for TV time or hotel space. It is a complex business, based on the principle that every company has an excess, whether it is an excess of 1976 toaster ovens or of green velvet sofas, and that they would rather trade away their excess for something they need (such as TV commercial time or hotel convention rooms) rather than diminish their cash flow by paying money for the needed commodity.

"To put it as simply as possible," says Binn, "a chair manufacturer with an excess of unsold chairs sells me those chairs, and I trade them to a chain of hotels, who in exchange will trade me room credits, which I may then trade to a television network for convention use, and in exchange I get TV advertising time, which can be bartered to..."

That's the way it works and, in one of Atwood-Richards' complicated barter arrangements, Moreton Binn acquired his first thoroughbred race horse.

"It seemed appropriate," he says

with a smile. "All my life, I had been trading. It started when I traded for all the Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams bubble-gum cards in my block, and then everyone would have to come to me to complete their sets — and I could lay down all the rules. I once traded a single DiMaggio for a pair of roller skates and three bags of marbles. So I was always a horse trader, without a horse. And now, at last, I had a horse."

It was a thrill and, being an entrepreneur at heart, Moreton Binn quickly began going to the yearling sales and acquiring more thoroughbreds, until now he has a string of 16 race horses. (Eight are two-year-olds, and each of them bears his name: Barter-Binn, Where-You-Binn, Coal-Binn, etc.)

With the logic of the would-be millionaire, Moreton then built himself a horse farm on Long Island for three-quarters-of-a-million dollars; it is the largest facility in the state of New York for the training, boarding and rehabilitation of thoroughbreds — with the two training tracks that exactly duplicate the racing surface of the top tracks like Belmont and Saratoga, and it has a swimming pool for horses that permits them to keep their upper torsos in racing form while soothing sore ankles. He calls it Pen-Mor Farms, blending his name and that of his wife, Penny, a psychologist. "And our racing silks are pink and red, the colors we were married in. We thought that was a nice, sentimental, lucky decision, but Steve Cauthen (the country's hottest jockey) won't ride for us. 'Are you crazy,' he says. 'Me riding around a track in pink?'"

Binn feels that in the next few years, more and more salaried Americans are going to be investing in race horses, because they are now available to the general public, and because "there is a basic long-loved relationship between man and horse. And the thrill of watching your own horse run is quite unlike any other."

He hopes that, once the Sport of Kings is truly the Sport of Average Men, the Thoroughbred Racing Association will change its present illogical rules. "When you want to drive an automobile, you learn how to do it, and get your driver's license, and then you buy a car. But not in the horse business. In the horse business, you have to buy a horse and then make application to race it: they check your financial position, they put you through the Benevolent association to find if you're a kind person, they step all over you and then, if you don't pass, you're stuck with thousands of dollars worth of horse and no chance to race it."

Palestinian Youth Claims Beating At Hands Of Israelis

Kaddar, 19, claimed he had been beaten by police during an anti-Israeli demonstration in Ramallah on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River last March. Israeli authorities said the youth's allegation might be true.

Kaddar told a reporter he also was insulted, made to drink water that had been used to wash floors, forced to curse his mother and Allah, and kicked in the groin. The Israelis said these charges were lies.

"It sometimes happens that things get out of hand, especially when the demonstrators are throwing rocks," a source in the Israeli military occupation government said. "But we would have no reason to do those other things."

Sami Kaddar's complaint, as far as is known, was never investigated, but his story illustrates a dilemma for Israel. Allegations of brutality and torture by Israeli prison wardens, riot police and intelligence interrogators have stung the conscience of the nation.

Israelis claim that they run the most benevolent occupation in history, and are trying to introduce democracy to a people who always lived under absolute rulers.

At the same time, the Israelis say, they must defend themselves against organized terrorists who operate in secret.

How Israel handles this delicate situation is coming under increasing scrutiny and dispute.

The most damaging charges came in a four-page article by the London Sunday Times last month. It cited at length three cases of Arabs who claimed they were beaten, sexually assaulted, given electrical shocks or put in darkened cells the size of broom closets for long periods to obtain confessions.

In an unusual step for a government which often shrugs off attacks by the press, the Foreign Ministry published what it called a case-by-case rebuttal, and accused the Sunday Times of printing half-truths and distortions.

Hare Krishna Group Will Defend Selves

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — They may be vegetarians, but members of a Hare Krishna religious commune here say they are not afraid to use arms to defend themselves.

"We don't believe in causing violence, but if violence comes, we're prepared," said Kirtanananda Swami, founder of the nine-year-old commune.

The latest in a four-year history of disputes involving the commune came last weekend when authorities say two men drove through the 1,000-acre commune in a pickup truck, firing shots.

Four armed commune members chased and stopped the truck, police said. The two men in the pickup were charged with firing a weapon within 500 feet of a building and the four commune members were charged with having loaded firearms in a vehicle, according to Marshall County sheriff's deputies.

"For simply apprehending them, why should we be arrested?" the swami asked.

"If we had wanted to blow them away, we could have blown them away," he said of the men in the truck. The swami said that Lord Krishna, or God, says that war is sometimes necessary.

More Money Woes For Malabar Farms

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — More financial woes are facing Malabar Farms, the expensive former showplace of the late conservationist Louis Bromfield.

Bromfield, a Pulitzer Prizewinning writer, spent more than $1.5 million on the 1,000-acre farm, but before he died was forced to sell parts of it to pay debts.

A state audit released this week says Ohio has lost more than $300,000 on Malabar Farms since becoming landlord of the remaining 290 acres five years ago.

The audit recommends that "for the purpose of saving taxpayers' dollars . . . the state withdraw from the farm operation, and lease the lands to responsible area farmers for the highest bid."

The Department of Natural Resources lost nearly $165,000 on the operation between July 1972 and November 1976, the report says. The state agriculture department lost more than $143,000 before it pulled out in the spring of 1976, leaving DNR with both the farm and the state park.

Delays in buying additional land to buffer the front and back entrances were costly and inexcusable, examiners say. One parcel which had been appraised at $94,000 and $100,000 cost the state $120,000 because of a two-year delay. Another acquisition was misrepresented to the state controlling board, they said.

Robert Teater, DNR director who took charge of Malabar in 1976 under the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes, said the loss figure is misleading because no state park makes money.

And he said the land purchase delays merely were due to the inevitable government red tape.

"Delays are inherent in government," Teater said. "They are normal and they are expected even if we don't like them."

The director said DNR is finished buying land for Malabar. Of the $487,961 spent, $404,668 was federal money and the rest state money.

One purchase not concluded involved C. J. Solomon, former manager and now an employee of Malabar. The state was to buy two-thirds of an acre from Solomon for $27,678, some $5,000 more than Solomon paid for it.

The deal, initiated during the administration of former Gov. John J. Gilligan, wound up in the courts after the Rhodes administration balked, Teater said. Solomon has exhausted his appeals.

The audit also says Dana Bass, former farm manager who pleaded guilty to theft in office in 1973, has not yet repaid the state for the items he took and sold. The state is suing Bass, who completed three years probation, for about $9,000.

Bromfield, who was born in Mansfield in 1896, won the Pulitzer in 1927 for his novel, "Early Autumn." He also published a number of volumes on farming, play and movie scripts and a syndicated newspaper column. He died in 1956.

five years ago.

The audit recommends that "for the purpose of saving taxpayers' dollars ... the state withdraw from the farm operation, and lease the lands to responsible area farmers for the highest bid."

The Department of Natural Resources lost nearly $165,000 on the operation between July 1972 and November 1976, the report says. The state agriculture department lost more than $143,000 before it pulled out in the spring of 1976, leaving DNR with both the farm and the state park.

Delays in buying additional land to buffer the front and back entrances were costly and inexcusable, examiners say. One parcel which had been appraised at $94,000 and $100,000 cost the state $120,000 because of a two-year delay. Another acquisition was misrepresented to the state controlling board, they said.

Robert Teater, DNR director who took charge of Malabar in 1976 under the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes, said the loss figure is misleading because no state park

Carey's Son Blackout Baby?

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey left reporters counting on their fingers when he hinted that his son, Thomas, was a blackout baby.

At a news conference Tuesday, he noted that the looting in last week's New York City power failure was in sharp contrast to a 1965 blackout, "when the main thing that happened was an increase in the birth rate."

He had earlier said that Thomas celebrated his 11th birthday on Tuesday, and he encouraged reporters to figure it out for themselves.

Those who did found that the Nov. 9, 1965, blackout occurred a little more than eight months before Thomas was born.

makes money.

And he said the land purchase delays merely were due to the inevitable government red tape.

"Delays are inherent in government," Teater said. "They are normal and they are expected even if we don't like them."

The director said DNR is finished buying land for Malabar. Of the $487,961 spent, $404,668 was federal money and the rest state money.

One purchase not concluded involved C. J. Solomon, former manager and now an employee of Malabar. The state was to buy two-thirds of an acre from Solomon for $27,678, some $5,000 more than Solomon paid for it.

The deal, initiated during the administration of former Gov. John J. Gilligan, wound up in the courts after the Rhodes administration balked, Teater said. Solomon has exhausted his appeals.

The audit also says Dana Bass, former farm manager who pleaded guilty to theft in office in 1973, has not yet repaid the state for the items he took and sold. The state is suing Bass, who completed three years probation, for about $9,000.

Bromfield, who was born in Mansfield in 1896, won the Pulitzer in 1927 for his novel, "Early Autumn." He also published a number of volumes on farming, play and movie scripts and a syndicated newspaper column. He died in 1956.

'Tie-Hack' Still Swinging

LIBBY, Mont. (AP) — Up toward the sky laden with threatening gray clouds, 70-year-old Jack Stevens raised the 10 pounds of worn wood and finehoned steel. Then he whipped the ax down to bite into a western larch log.

Ten years ago, he hewed such a log into a 9-inch by 7-inch by 8-foot railroad tie in just three minutes at a logging contest in Eureka, Mont., where he now lives.

It takes him longer now. But Stevens is one of the few professional "tie-hacks" who still can cut a railroad tie. He demonstrated his skill during Libby Logger Days here, a four-day, mid-July festival.

Railroad ties have been made in sawmills for years, and Stevens hadn't cut a tie since 1969.

"Most of the tie-hacks are too old now ... they're afraid of heart attacks," he said.

Stevens' record, set during the Depression when he was 27 years old, was 45 ties in one day. Most men cut 20 ties a day, he said.

He was paid 20 cents a tie back then. That was good money, Stevens said — better than what loggers made. Stevens usually took home about $2 for an 8-hour day, six days a week.

Stevens, wearing a dusty cowboy hat and suspended pants, said he started cutting ties when he was 8 years old. Jack Dempsey was his idol then, and Stevens said he almost took up professional boxing.

"I got married instead," he said smiling. "But I could come out of the woods and go six rounds. I was in great shape. Others could maybe go two rounds after working in the woods all day."

Stevens displayed his broadax and scoring ax, the tools he uses to cut a tie. The broadax, which he bought for $2.45 in 1931, has a 13-inch biting blade. It's flat on one side and beveled on the other.

He used the eight-pound scoring ax to mark the wood and split off the sides of the log with the broadax to form the tie, which then went to Libby's new Heritage Museum for future display.

Carter Wants Less Live TV Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter wants less, not more, live television coverage of his twice-a-month news conferences.

This surprising news comes from Barry Jagoda, a former network producer who is Carter's special assistant for media and public affairs.

By habit and inclination, politicians normally compete vigorously for maximum television exposure. That's what makes Carter's position a novel one, to say the least.

It isn't that the President opposes TV coverage of news conferences, however. He simply doesn't know why all three major commercial networks broadcast each one live instead of taking turns.

In a telephone interview, Jagoda cited three reasons why Carter would prefer that the networks cover the conferences on a one-at-a-time basis:

—The President has received "a lot of mail" from citizens who tell him they like the news conferences but are unhappy when his meetings with reporters deprive them of their favorite soap operas.

—Carter does not view the conferences as being aimed primarily at the public but sees them as opportunities to communicate with reporters and with those individuals (civic leaders and state and local authorities were cited as examples) who concern themselves with public policy on a day-to-day basis.

—If the three networks continue live coverage and the frequent news conferences come to be regarded as routine, one network might decide to forego its coverage and inspire the other two to do likewise, resulting in no TV coverage at all.

Jagoda said he and White House Press Secretary Jody Powell agree with the President's position.

However, the Carter aide prefaced a discussion of the subject by emphasizing the administration has a "very benign position" toward news conference coverage and would not attempt to tell the networks how to do their job.

Jagoda also said there was no thought at the White House that the present triple-header coverage of news conferences would lead to overexposure of the President. He contended that as long as the sessions are long on quality, as he believes them to be, quantity will be no problem.

One network executive said the White House has been forceful in urging that ABC, CBS and NBC take turns in providing live coverage of the conferences. He said he, for one, has no intention of altering the present situation.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Martha Martin who gave the welcome. Those present sang several hymns. Peg Trimble read two poems and musical numbers were presented by The Revelations, Jane Reid, Woody Bandy and the Rev. Currans. Mrs. Martin read a poem and gave the benediction. A love gift of $615 was presented to the Currans by Bill Trimble.

Approximately 100 persons enjoyed the carry-in dinner and program.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nance, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yause (Virgie Six), Mr. and Mrs. Marion (Dick) Jones, Mr. Buss Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kirby (Leora Nance), Mrs. Jack Lemon (Kate Thompson), Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cook, (Dorothy Reid), Mrs. Rex Craft (Helen Kibbee) of Edwardsburg, Michigan and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Neece.

Next year the class will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lemon on July 15, 1978.

Morrow for his visits and prayers. The Village United Methodist Church for their planter and the Everfaithful Class of the Zion United Methodist Church for their messages of cheer and prayers from all.

We knew that we'd have to replace much of the old overhang on the station. We knew it would take a long time to complete it; but, hopefully, we'll have it done this Thursday. Once that is finished the sheathing will go on and the roofer can go to town.

We'd like to thank our newcomers—Richard Petty and Warren Diehl. We initiated Warren by letting him tear out the old bathroom (a job which required an even temper and strong arms and hardly worthy of the talents of an engineer). Richard proved that he could swing a hammer, it didn't always hit the nail, but then it didn't always hit his fingers either. We hope to see more new people this Thursday night at 6:30.

Thanks to Bill Hollenback for reading the electrical service, and to Wade Canter for offering to help with the plumbing.

We need a volunteer brick layer to replace the top of the old chimney—it was about three foot high.

My brother, Buss Hedges, John and I would like to thank each and every person who helped us in any way during the barn fire at our farm last Thursday. A special thanks to the Harrison Township Firemen who stayed on the scene until late evening, to the Rickenbacker Air Force Base Fire Department, Circleville Township Fire Department and the Pickaway Township Fire Department for their assistance in providing and transporting water to the fire and the man-power they provided. Also a special thanks to all those who helped rescue the cattle and hogs. Each one of you have our most sincere thanks and gratitude.

35 Per Cent 'Dangerous' Doctor Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychiatrist who has screened and counseled thousands of police officers over the last 13 years says 35 per cent of all police now on duty are "really dangerous."

The conclusion is drawn by Dr. Edward Shev of Sausalito, Calif., author of a newly published book entitled "Good Cops-Bad Cops."

Shev, 57, says that interviews and consultations with some 6,700 police officers and applicants in 20 California communities have convinced him that "natural cops constitute only 5 per cent of all police, men and women, who know intuitively how to handle both the work and pressures of being a cop."

Shev, who practices in San Francisco and is chief of neurology at Marshall Hale Memorial Hospital here, says 60 per cent of all police are "treatable" in that they perform their duties well most of the time but have a breaking point under pressure.

"But the really dangerous police are the 35 per cent who make up the third category. These are the 'untreatable' men and women — the bad cops. Their personalities are not suited to police work, and they are unable to learn about themselves or accept treatment that would allow them to function adequately as police officers," Shev said.

"We give a man or woman probably the widest discretionary authority to put us in jail, to shoot us, to crowd-control us, to take away our liberties — without understanding how stable that individual is," he added.

"My theme is, if we give somebody that much authority in a free society, I want him or her to be the sanest guy or gal that we can find."

Shev began working with police in his own town, across the bay from San Francisco, in 1965. Still at it, he screens prospective policemen, conducts psychological sessions and counsels individual officers. On Shev's psychiatric assessment, the Sausalito council chose its new police chief.

Shev says the nation's next FBI director should have a psychiatric check-up before taking office. He offers himself to President Carter, at a fee, to screen candidates for the post.

New Welfare Director Faces Major Problems, Low Budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kenneth B. Creasy, recently appointed director of public welfare, faces one of the toughest jobs in state government with a wealth of problems and a tight budget, part of which is being held in escrow.

But Creasy took over his new duties last week with at least one optimistic note—a letter of congratulations from Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

His two predecessors, the late Raymond McKenna and Kweyir Aggrey were never able to establish a good working relationship with the General Assembly's Democratic majority which controls the department's budget.

To underscore the lack of confidence in the legislature, Democratic budget-makers put part of this year's Aid to Dependent Children budget and all of the 1978 subsidy monies in the State Controlling Board.

The welfare department will have to demonstrate the need for the full allocation to the Democrat-dominated board.

Creasy, a 44-year-old veteran of seven terms in the Ohio House, may be the man to make a case for the maligned agency.

"I think Ken Creasy has tremendous potential," Ocasek said.

The Senate leader, who lent his support to the move in the Senate to oust McKenna, said the letter of congratulations he sent Creasy was his first such letter in 19 years as a legislator. He predicted fellow lawmakers will be able to work with a former colleague.

"I'm sure in a department as big and complicated and controversial as welfare, there will be some times when we'll have some difficulties," Creasy said. "But I'm looking forward to working with the legislature. I'm more comfortable about that aspect of the jobs than some others."

As a representative of Delaware County, the former school teacher served 14 years on the Public Welfare Committee, chairing it for two terms.

One round was lost before Creasy succeeded the 68-year-old Aggrey who retired after a frustrating year on the job.

The legislature sent Rhodes a budget which trimmed $6.9 million from the executive's request for welfare administrative and operating costs.

"We tried to demonstrate the need for 168 additional staffers to avoid compliance problems with the federal government," Creasy said.

The department's staff is down about 50 employees statewide since August of 1976, he said. About 900 are employed in all phases of the operation.

On the day Rhodes signed the budget, Creasy suffered another setback, this one personal as well as professional — McKenna passed away, a heart attack victim at the age of 57.

He had remained at the department as assistant director, in effect doing the same job he had before the Senate rejected his appointment.

"He was a good, good friend and I have no hopes of finding any single individual to match his breadth of knowledge," Creasy said.

But beginning next week, he will work with a new assistant director who is experienced and "energetic." He is Charles E. "Gene" Noggle, director of the 24-county Toledo district, and a veteran of 16 years with the department.

MRS. JOHN SABINE, PHONE 983-2086

A reception was held in the social room of the Zion United Methodist Church honoring the Rev. and Mrs. John Currans upon their return to the church for another year. Being honored along with the Currans were members of their family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yocke, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Currans, Mr. and Mrs. Mike McKittrick, Mr. Paul Currans, Mrs. Mary Yocke all of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Currans, Marty and Tod of Gahanna, Mrs. Jack McCafferty, Kim and Alan of Reynoldsburg, Mrs. Mary McDaniel of Blacklick, Mrs. Joan Wallace of Wheeling, West Virginia and Roy Currans of Ashville.

The honored guests table was centered with a decorated cake like an open Bible with Psalm 46, verse 10 inscribed on it. A decorated cake was also there for the birthday of Mrs. Currans.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Martha Martin who gave the welcome. Those present sang several hymns. Peg Trimble read two poems and musical numbers were presented by The Revelations, Jane Reid, Woody Bandy and the Rev. Currans. Mrs. Martin read a poem and gave the benediction. A love gift of $615 was presented to the Currans by Bill Trimble.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Why Did Bowler Go For Massage?

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently confessed to me that he and some of his friends went to a massage parlor after bowling one night.

He swore he had never done anything like that before and he doesn't plan to do it again. I forgave him, but I can't help feeling betrayed. Abby, he is the last man on earth I would ever suspect of doing such a thing. We have a very satisfying sex life, and my husband has always been a very religious, churchgoing man.

What makes a happily married, religious man go to a place like that?

HURT WIFE

DEAR HURT: Curiosity. Lust. An itch for variety. The fear of missing something. Wanting to be "one of the boys." Being too chicken to refuse when one of his pals suggest it. Temporary insanity. I don't know which of the above applies to your husband, but I'll wager one of them does.

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old and in love with a man 29. We are talking about getting married, but we disagree on one important point. He wants children and I don't.

Since the death of my first husband, five years ago, I am more convinced than ever that I do not want children because they will infringe on my freedom. I don't want to share my husband's time with anyone else. The world's problems-crime, violence, famine, disease, pollution and the threat of overpopulation-are more than just a theory. Besides, I'm afraid that I am so set in my ways now I will not have the patience to raise a child properly.

I would appreciate your opinion.

NO CHILDREN

DEAR NO: I agree, you shouldn't have children, but for probably the most important reason of all. You don't really want any.

DEAR ABBY: You are in error when you say, "We all have roots in a foreign country unless we happen to be American Indians, that is."

May I point out that according to the anthropological data available today, the American Indian is also a foreigner, having migrated from Africa some 13,000 years ago? Please reverse yourself in the interest of accuracy.

ANTHROPOLOGY MAJOR

DEAR MAJOR: Aw, come on. I would hesitate to label a people "foreigners" knowing that their ancestors had been here for some 13,000 years. While technically they may not be "natives," they could hardly qualify for membership in the "Newcomers Club."

Sherman Tank Recovered

BELLEVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Memo to an Indiana truck driver: Your Sherman tank has been recovered.

And Wayne county sheriff's deputies want to know, what do we do with it?

The tank — minus its turret — was parked on a flatbed trailer in the parking lot of Rogelle's lounge just off Interstate 94.

At 1 a.m. today, somebody crawled inside, started it — there are starting instructions on a dashboard placard — and drove it off the trailer, snapping the hold-down chains.

The budding Rommel knocked over a few trees before abandoning the vehicle a mile away, engine still running.

Since they did not know how to disable it, deputies had to guard the tank.

"You tell me what we're going to do with it," one deputy said. "We don't know who the tractor driver is. We don't know if he was going to Indiana with the tank, or coming from there and headed somewhere in Michigan."

The trailer bore Indiana and Ohio plates. But the tractor, the deputy pointed out, could have been from anywhere.

The tank wound up in the parking lot on Monday afternoon when a truck driver came into the lounge.

"He asked me if he could leave his flat-bed trailer in my parking lot," the lounge owner, Barbara Rogelle, said today. "He said he had to take his tractor back to Indiana for repairs but would return as soon as possible for the trailer."

"Trying to be a good neighbor, I said sure."

Heat Causes Adjournment

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Findlay City Council met Tuesday night, staying in session just long enough to vote to adjourn.

The air conditioning for the council chambers was broken, and the majority of council decided the heat was just too much.

However, some members apparently were a little stronger than others. The vote to adjourn was 5-to-3.

Salt Tablets Not Way To Bear Heat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The way to handle the summer heat isn't to down a handful of salt tablets. You are much better off drinking a lot of plain water, says a specialist in the effects of hot weather on humans.

"We haven't used salt tablets at OSU for 10 years," Dr. Robert J. Murphy, Ohio State University team physician said Wednesday.

"Two salt tablets in eight ounces of water gives you the same proportion of fluid as you lose through the skin (through sweating). But we found that people who took two would take four or six, and you wind up taking sea water. And everyone knows that's bad."

"The key to prevention (of heat stroke) is copious amounts of water," Murphy said. "Drink plenty of fluids."

He noted that 90 OSU football players will down 100-150 gallons of water during a 90-minute practice in warm weather.

Murphy acknowledged that people do feel much worse, and are in much more danger of heat stroke, when the humidity is high.

"The body's ability to dissipate the heat through the skin is dependent on the humidity. If it is very humid, it is almost like having your skin in water. Evaporation becomes a problem and there is no way to dissipate the heat," Murphy said.

Consequently, "95 degrees here (where the humidity generally ranges from 50-70 per cent of saturation) can be devastating while 95 degrees in Phoenix with 10 per cent humidity is no problem," Murphy said. "When the temperature is between 80 and 90 degrees and the humidity is over 70 per cent, it can be dangerous," he said.

"From the standpoint of what happens (with heat stroke), it is caused by a water deficit in the body. The usual early symptoms are headache, weakness, muscle cramping, exhaustion, then sometimes sloppy coordination and confusion."

"At a point when the body has lost all the water it can lose, that is, it has sweat out all available water, the brain shuts off the sweat mechanism and the body quits sweating. The condition of the body stopping sweating is heat stroke," the doctor said.

"So then there is no way to dissipate the heat. The body's temperature can go from 98.6 to 106 in about 20 minutes. At that level you bake the body," Murphy said.

When someone suffers heat stroke, "The only first aid is to cool the body until you can transport it to a hospital where you can get intravenous fluids."

"Take the person's clothes off, fan them, ice them down if ice is available. If there is a cold shower or tub available, that is fine, too. The key is treatment by any means you can use to cool the body down. If you can keep the temperature under 105 degrees, the chance of recovery is 100 per cent," Murphy said.

Martin Essex Honored For Public Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retired State Supt. of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex has received the Ohio Newspaper Association's distinguished public service award.

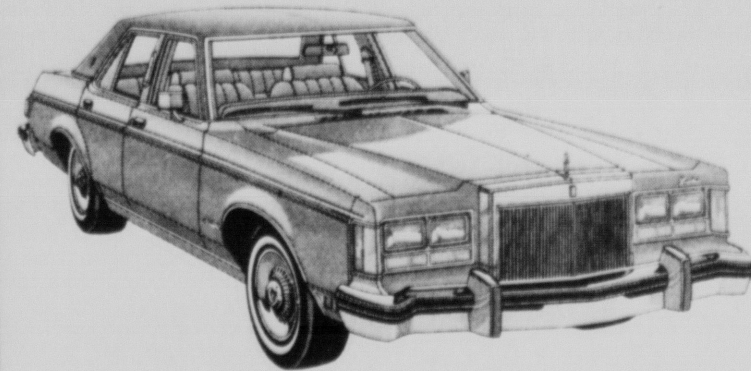

ONA President Harry R. Horvitz praised Essex on Wednesday for conducting an open education-press relationship and developing the nation's first junior high school course on the news media while he was state superintendent.

Essex was cited for starting the statewide Newspaper-in-Education seminar program which is in its 14th year, encouraging teachers to use newspapers in the classrooms as "living textbooks" and for his work with the American Newspaper Publishers' Association national newspaper-in-education revision plan.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Why Did Bowler Go For Massage?

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently confessed to me that he and some of his friends went to a massage parlor after bowling one night.

He swore he had never done anything like that before and he doesn't plan to do it again. I forgave him, but I can't help feeling betrayed. Abby, he is the last man on earth I would ever suspect of doing such a thing. We have a very satisfying sex life, and my husband has always been a very religious, churchgoing man.

What makes a happily married, religious man go to a place like that?

HURT WIFE

DEAR HURT: Curiosity. Lust. An itch for variety. The fear of missing something. Wanting to be "one of the boys." Being too chicken to refuse when one of his pals suggest it. Temporary insanity. I don't know which of the above applies to your husband, but I'll wager one of them does.

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old and in love with a man 29. We are talking about getting married, but we disagree on one important point. He wants children and I don't.

Since the death of my first husband, five years ago, I am more convinced than ever that I do not want children because they will infringe on my freedom. I don't want to share my husband's time with anyone else. The world's problems—crime, violence, famine, disease, pollution and the threat of overpopulation—are more than just a theory. Ray Says GOP Can Rejuvenate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Iowa Gov. Robert Ray said here Wednesday he believes the Republican party can rejuvenate itself by "paying attention to people and not taking anyone for granted."

"I think most people believe in the philosophy of the party, that they believe as we believe," Ray said following a speech to several hundred women at a Women's Political Day sponsored by the Ohio Republican party.

The governor said these are hard but improving times for Republicans. "A year ago it was different. Good, young candidates didn't want to run. They said they didn't think they could win, or that it wasn't the right time. Now, more candidates are becoming available."

I'm convinced that if the County Gets Criminal Cost Subsidy Funds

Pickaway County will receive $1,691.40 under the state's Criminal Cost Subsidy Program.

Under the plan, counties are reimbursed for expenses incurred in the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons charged with felony offenses.

Seventy-one counties in the state benefitted from the program.

Huntington Mayor Denies Forgery Charge

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Huntington's mayor has denied a forgery related charge brought by a Cabell County grand jury.

"I am shocked, amazed and disappointed at the allegations leveled at me for which there is absolutely no foundation," Frankel said in a statement read from the steps of Cabell County Courthouse.

The grand jury indicted Frankel Tuesday on a charge of being an accessory before the fact in an attempt to convince a former worker at a Holiday Inn in Huntington to forge an owner's name to a promissory note.

Republican party puts forth good candidates and pays attention to the people, all of them, we can win." Ray, hailed at the session as a rising star on the party's horizon, told the women they should remain active in the party because it is something they "ought to do," and added: "You can win the Ohio legislature if you are willing to do what you ought to."

Mary Crisp, national cochairman of the party, acknowledged earlier the need for rebuilding.

"Look around, there isn't much there now," she said at a press conference following her keynote speech.

The old Republican party concentrated on the White House, she said. The new party must be more concerned with local elections and people at the grass roots level.

Mrs. Crisp said she believes blacks can be attracted to the party "by convincing them that there is more opportunity in our party. The emphasis is on individuality."

As for labor, she said Republicans "must create a dialogue with these people. The working man and woman are captivated by their own individuality. It is a matter of transferring that individuality into terms that the group can understand."

Mrs. Crisp told the Republican women that one person can make a difference, and urged them to get involved.

"There are four ways an individual can influence things: By the ballot, through public opinion — someone is

New Bill Would Prevent Erosion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill that would give the state authority to set standards to prevent soil erosion by farmers and developers was approved by the House Energy and Environment Committee Wednesday.

The legislation, backed by the natural resources department, but opposed by the Department of Agriculture, now goes to the House Rules Committee for assignment to a full vote.

It would establish rules aimed at halting "agricultural pollution" by farmers and "urban sediment pollution" by developers.

Grange News

A picnic supper was enjoyed by Star Grange and their guests, members of Nebraska Grange when they met Tuesday evening in the basement of the Five Points United Methodist Church basement for their regular meeting. Worthy Master, Carroll Reid presided over the short business session and a "Thank You" note was read from Mabel Stoer for the flowers and many cards of cheer she had received while in the hospital and since her return home.

Plans were discussed concerning the fair booth and also it was announced that Star Grange will help with the food booth on Wednesday and the men will help with the gates.

Plans were also discussed concerning entertaining the Grange members from Geauga County over the week-end.

Nebraska Grange members were present and presented their traveling program which proved very interesting. Mrs. Chestora Peters gave a very interesting topic on the Changes in Pickaway County. Mrs. Noecker read a humorous article, "Pet Lickin'" and the worthy Master of Nebraska Grange conducted a unique auction with Dawn Bidwell bidding the lucky number. She received a bicentennial plate for the prize.

The next regular meeting of Star Grange will be held Aug. 9 and will be an inspection and all officers and members are urged to attend. A picnic supper will also precede the meetings at 6:30.

Grange News

A picnic supper was enjoyed by Star Grange and their guests, members of Nebraska Grange when they met Tuesday evening in the basement of the Five Points United Methodist Church basement for their regular meeting. Worthy Master, Carroll Reid presided over the short business session and a "Thank You" note was read from Mabel Stoer for the flowers and many cards of cheer she had received while in the hospital and since her return home.

Plans were discussed concerning the fair booth and also it was announced that Star Grange will help with the food booth on Wednesday and the men will help with the gates.

Plans were also discussed concerning entertaining the Grange members from Geauga County over the week-end.

Nebraska Grange members were present and presented their traveling program which proved very interesting. Mrs. Chestora Peters gave a very interesting topic on the Changes in Pickaway County. Mrs. Noecker read a humorous article, "Pet Lickin'" and the worthy Master of Nebraska Grange conducted a unique auction with Dawn Bidwell bidding the lucky number. She received a bicentennial plate for the prize.

The next regular meeting of Star Grange will be held Aug. 9 and will be an inspection and all officers and members are urged to attend. A picnic supper will also precede the meetings at 6:30.

Soto, Sarmiento Join Reds In Chase

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, continuing a youth movement within the pitching staff, added a pair of 21-year-old right-handers Wednesday while readying for the second half of the season.

The Reds dipped into their top farm at Indianapolis to call up fireballing Mario Soto, an American Association All-Star, and reliever Manny Sarmiento.

Cincinnati, facing a 9½-game deficit to the Los Angeles Dodgers, open a three-game series against the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

The Reds recalled the contracts of Soto and Sarmiento, who had a 2.05 earned run average in 22 games with Cincinnati last year.

The Reds have been one player under the 25-man limit since the surprise retirement of veteran left-hander Woody Fryman last week. To make room for a second pitcher, the Reds optioned the contract of 31-year-old reliever Joe Henderson back to Indianapolis. The two newcomers join former teammate Paul Moskau, 23 and 25-year-old starter Doug Capilla. Manager Sparky Anderson is on record saying he plans to build a young staff around veteran Tom Seaver.

Soto, in only his second full pro season, possesses the best fastball among in the Cincinnati system, according to the Reds coaching staff. A former catcher in the Dominican Republic, he missed two seasons when he broke his right elbow twice while pitching.

Sarmiento has apparently recovered from a mysterious ailment that hospitalized him during spring training.

Soto had an 11-5 record at Indianapolis, with a 3.01 ERA, and was scheduled to appear in the American Association All-Star game at the New Orleans' Super Dome Thursday night.

At Indianapolis he had 108 strikeouts in 122 innings, with only 62 walks.

Sarmiento, one of the youngest players in the big leagues last year, had a 5-1 record with the Reds after joining the club on July 31. His ERA was the best among the Cincinnati pitching staff.

Sarmiento said Thursday that he is confident his has regained his strength from the illness.

"I can't remember anything during a five-day period. I didn't have any appetite and all I did was sleep. I didn't even know I was taken to the hospital until the day I checked out. But I feel very good now," said the 160-pound Venezuelan who was discovered by countryman Dave Concepcion.

Sarmiento was 3-4 at Indianapolis with a 6.69 ERA in 25 games.

Miller Shoots Low Gross

Chuck Miller fired a 37 for low gross honors as the second half of the Upper Lansdowne Wednesday night league got underway.

Chet Irey had a low net 29, and Gloyd's Sohio shot the low team net.

Point totals are as follows: Gloyd's Sohio, 17½; Alro Auto Parts, 17; Ashville Bank, 16½; Second National Bank, 13; Marathon Oil, 11; Professional Lawn Care, 7½; Pickaway Gardens, 7; and Goodyear, 6½.

Nearly On Time, a fast race horse, was so named because he was three weeks late in being foaled.

Omar Moreno, the Pittsburgh Pirate center fielder, is only 24 but is in his ninth season of professional baseball.

Lasorda's Chemistry Winning Formula

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Now that the All-Star Game is pleasant history, baseball can settle down to the more significant job of contesting the second half of the season, with one question paramount: Who is going to head off Tom Lasorda's loose, supremely confident and rampaging Los Angeles Dodgers?

The Cubs and White Sox, with their fragile two-game divisional leads, conceivably could falter in their bids for an unbelievable Chicago World Series. The Baltimore Orioles still face a scramble with the talent-rich but internally troubled Yankees and the free-swinging Red Sox in the American League East.

But the doughty Dodgers, they look long gone.

In a tempestuous year of free agent wheeling and dealing, bickering among the instant millionaires, defections of superstars and general state of unrest, Manager Lasorda has hit upon a rare chemistry with the Dodgers.

The jovial, loquacious Lasorda, who succeeded the dour and professional Walter Alston, insists he is no Houdini. He hasn't done it with mirrors. He never saw the Indian rope trick.

"I am just the luckiest man in the world," he said during a break in his coaching duties with the National Leaguers in the All-Star Game. "I'm a first-year manager, a beat-up third-string pitcher and son of an Italian immigrant."

"I can't hit for this team, I can't pitch and I can't field. They do it all themselves. I am just like a father sitting at the head of a large table. This is a team that is like a big, happy family."

The swarthy native of Norristown,

Pa., said that when he inherited the club from the highly respected Alston, he imposed only two precepts.

"I told every player that he was No. 1, that he was somebody. I made every guy believe in himself," he said, "then I instilled a spirit of togetherness. That's the important thing about this team—togetherness."

"I told them if you take 25 players pulling on a rope, they can drag off any team in the league. But if you have 13 going one way and 12 pulling the other, you go nowhere."

The formula has put the Dodgers 9½ games ahead of the champion Cincinnati Reds.

"Reggie Smith kicked around quite a bit, never realizing what a fine talent he is," the Dodgers' skipper said. "Now he knows. Everybody thought I was out of my mind when I told Steve Garvey to start swinging for the fences. They said it was like changing God. Garvey has become a home run hitter."

Ali-Shavers Bout Booked

NEW YORK (AP) — The heavyweight title fight between champion Muhammad Ali and Ernie Shavers of Warren, Ohio, that had been faced with legal technicalities the scheduled 15-round bout Sept. 29 at Madison Square Garden, to be shown on home television by NBC.

Shavers, who has a 54-5-1 record with 52 knockouts, had signed May 16 via telegram to fight Ali at the Garden for an estimated $200,000. He later signed with Top Rank Inc., for $300,000 for the same bout.

Subsequent litigation in New York Federal court ensued.

In a recent decision, Justice Robert Owen ruled that the Garden had a legal contract by virtue of the telegram. However, at the same time, the Garden agreed to increase Shavers' purse by $100,000.

Garden spokesman John F.X. Condon said Wednesday, "At the moment we are clear of law suits and we can see legal daylight for the first time in many months. It's been a long, hard road getting this fight signed. It's been a lot of blood, sweat and tears, but we finally got it."

Bob Arum, chairman of Top Rank Inc. doesn't agree.

"As far as we're concerned, nothing is set. The matter will be settled in New York State Supreme Court," Arum said.

Arum and lawyers representing Top Rank were to meet in New York State Supreme Court today and seek a trial date for their suit against the Garden.

However, the Garden said it doesn't expect any insurmountable problems.

"Arum is trying to enjoin the fight," Condon said, "but we've already gotten a federal court ruling in our behalf."

The fight will be Ali's first title defense since scoring a unanimous decision over Alfredo Evangelista of Spain in a 15-rounder at Landover, Md. May 16.

The 35-year-old champion reportedly will receive more than $3 million for the Shavers bout.

Score Minus Fame Because Of Injury

CINCINNATI (AP) — Had Herb Score avoided the eye injury that cost him his career, former teammate Russ Nixon thinks the former Cleveland Indians pitching star would have ended up an all-time great.

"He was the fastest man I ever caught, and that included Ryne Duren, Bob Turley, Dick Radatz and Jim Kaat in his prime. I don't see anyone in the National League today who throws as hard as Herb did. Tom Seaver, on a given pitch, is as fast, but Score was power all the time," said Nixon, a rookie catcher with Cleveland when Score was injured.

Score was struck in the right eye by a line drive off Gil McDougald's bat 20 years ago during an Indians-Yankees game at Municipal Stadium.

Then 23, Score had captured two straight American League strikeout records and broke the all-time record for whiffs by a rookie.

"I haven't seen Frank Tanana or Nolan Ryan," said Nixon, now a first base coach for the Cincinnati Reds, "but I can't imagine anyone faster than Herb."

The accident still haunts Nixon.

"When you see something that bad, you always picture it happening again. I even cringe when I see a hard-hit ball take a bad bounce at infielders on artificial turf," said Nixon, who played 12 years in the major leagues. Nixon's major claim to fame was serving as battery mate to Boston's Tracy Stallard the day Roger Maris cracked his 61st home run to top Babe Ruth's legendary record.

Nixon said Score's injury and the beaming of Billy Martin rank at the worst nightmares he witnessed.

He called the Score accident "an awful thing. We thought we had lost him...he was hit flush."

"Gil McDougald took himself out of the line-up, he was so shook," recalled Nixon, who played part of the game when regular catcher Jim Hegan went to the bench.

Martin, playing for Cleveland at the time, was hit by a Tex Clevenger pitch in the face.

"He ended up with something like 18 fractures. I've never seen a man look so dead. He didn't even flutter. His face swelled up like a beehive," Nixon recalled.

Nixon's voice turned cold when he spoke of beanball battles.

"It's a war zone out there sometimes. I'm glad that the umpires work so hard at not allowing some feud deteriorate into a beanball game."

Nixon applauds plastic helmets and ear flaps as "the biggest pluses baseball has come up with in terms of safety."

Browns Obtain Kowalkowski

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have acquired Bob Kowalkowski from the Detroit Lions, but there is some question whether the 12-year veteran will report to the Browns' camp at Kent State University.

The Browns said Wednesday they gave up a draft choice for Kowalkowski. However, the deal is contingent on the 6-foot-3, 245-pound guard reporting to the Browns.

Kowalkowski has business interests in Detroit and is considering retirement.

One of the standouts in Wednesday's drill, which included a 45-minute scrimmage, was defensive tackle Robert Sims. The 285-pound lineman seemed agile and was tough to move.

Head Coach Forrest Gregg said after watching the performance that Sims had "a good chance" of sticking with the Browns.

Gregg also was pleased with the quarterbacking of rookie Terry Luck and Dave Logan, who is trying to make the transition from wide receiver.

The coach said Logan has made remarkable progress in a short time and will get another test in Saturday's scrimmage.

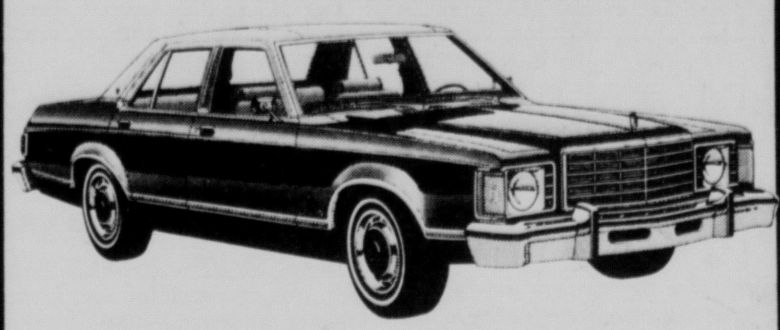

After that, Logan is to go back to catching the ball for the season — unless there is an emergency.

It was announced Wednesday that Ali would defend his championship against the fifth-ranked challenger in a

Questions Pain In Neck To Jerry Pate Use The Classifieds

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Don't ask Jerry Pate about his neck injury. "I'm sick of hearing about it," Pate said. "The problem is solved."

Pate, defending champion in the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship that began today, was sidelined for a couple of months with back, hand and arm trouble that eventually was diagnosed as a pinched nerve in his neck.

"I'm tired of people asking me if I can ever come back," he said.

"Look, I had the best record as a rookie in a long time. I won the first tournament of the year this year.

"I'm only 23.

"Does that sound like I'm over the hill?"

Pate, who scored his first pro victory in the U.S. Open last year, capped his rookie season with the title in this national championship, compiling probably the finest first-year record since Jack Nicklaus in 1962.

His Phoenix triumph that kicked off the lucrative 1977 golf tour, proved he was one of the golf's best young players. Then the injury problems occurred.

"I'd like to win again, get in the World Series," he said. And, as the defending titleholder, he was among the favorites in the field of 156 chasing the $45,000 first prize over the new, permanent site for this national championship, the 7,129-yard, par-72 Glen Abbey Golf Club course.

The course designer ranked as the man to beat, however. That's Jack Nicklaus, who was commissioned by the sponsoring Royal Canadian Golf Association to design the course in suburban Toronto. Nicklaus, who has yet to win this tournament, has three victories this year and second-place finishes in his last two starts.

Other standouts include Ray Floyd and Bruce Lietzke, each a two-time winner this year, Ben Crenshaw, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Al Geiberger and Tom Weiskopf, winner of two of the last four Canadian national titles.

Johnson More Comfortable

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Johnson admits he feels more comfortable preparing for his second season as coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

Last year, at this time, he was getting ready to follow a tough act, with Paul Brown, stepping aside as head coach to concentrate his full attentions on the job of general manager.

Brown was still the center of attention during last year's annual pre-training camp luncheon, but this year, it was Johnson who fielded all the questions about the team's fortunes for the upcoming season.

"Maybe we didn't do as good a job as we should in preparing for last season," Johnson admitted, reflecting on last year's 10-4 record. "I have a much better feeling starting this season.

"We're in a much more comfortable situation."

Johnson started the season with three new coaches.

"I didn't know their full capabilities," Johnson said. "Now we've served a full year together and we've had some good sessions in the off-season."

Johnson told reporters that he plans to make a concerted effort during the preseason to find out how beneficial the "three-four" defensive alignment would be for the upcoming season.

"We've been using the basic elements for the last three or four years, but we've never concentrated on it," Johnson said.

The formation features three "down" defensive linemen and four linebackers and will help the team present a stronger pass such, Johnson said.

Johnson refused to speculate on how extensively the Bengals would move into the three-four defense, but he said its effectiveness would be fully tested during the preseason.

The crop of good defensive linemen in the recent National Football League draft helped the Bengals to begin thinking about making extensive use of the defensive formation.

"It was an unusual year in that there were defensive linemen available who could become performers almost immediately," Johnson said.

The three down linemen will come from a quartet composed of veteran Coy Bacon, Gary Burley, and the Bengals' first-round draft picks, Eddie Edwards and Wilson Whitley.

The candidates to hold down the four linebacking jobs are Jim LeClair, Glenn Cameron, Reggie Williams and Bo Harris, Johnson said.

Ron Pritchard is expected to give Williams a battle for one of those positions, the Bengals coach said, while adding that Chris Devlin, Ray Phillips and Ken Kuhn also are candidates for a job at one of those positions.

Missing from the coach's initial comments about the defensive linemen was veteran Bob Brown, who was a major factor on defense last season.

"I've heard nothing from Bob Brown in recent weeks, and I don't think anyone in our organization has heard from him," Johnson said.

"If he shows up at camp, and if he passes the physical, I think Brown is capable of playing football for us."

Brown has a history of weight problems in the off-season.

Indians Full Of Optimism For 2nd Half

BOSTON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are bursting with optimism as they head into the second half of the season.

Among those exuding enthusiasm was rookie outfielder Paul Dade, who said, "Everybody got enthused over the way Dennis Eckersley and Jim Kern pitched in the All-Star game."

"You have to think positive in this game," Dade said as he and his teammates prepared for a day-night doubleheader against the Boston Red Sox today.

"The cream always comes to the top," said designated hitter Rico Carty. "I guarantee you things will change."

"This is a young team. We can do a lot of things. We've always had a good second half since I've been here."

When it was noted that the Indians' total run production of 350 at this point ranks them fourth from the bottom among the 26 major league teams, Carty said, "Forget that."

"Let's forget the past and come into the present. We can do a lot of things on this club. Just because we haven't scored much doesn't mean we're a bad club."

"The New York Mets had a worse team than ours the year they won the pennant," he added.

Indians' President Ted Bonda, who had just returned from the All-Star game, also was full of optimism.

"We thought we had a good team when we started the season," he said, "and we still do. I was heartened Tuesday by all the comments I heard about our club in New York," Bonda said. "I don't think those baseball men were giving me a snow job. I know a snow job when I see one by this time."

Bonda doubted that Boston has enough pitching to go all the way and said he thinks Cleveland's lineup compares favorably with that of the young Baltimore club, which is leading the league.

Questions Pain In Neck To Jerry Pate

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Don't ask Jerry Pate about his neck injury. "I'm sick of hearing about it," Pate said. "The problem is solved."

Pate, defending champion in the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship that began today, was sidelined for a couple of months with back, hand and arm trouble that eventually was diagnosed as a pinched nerve in his neck.

"I'm tired of people asking me if I can ever come back," he said.

"Look, I had the best record as a rookie in a long time. I won the first tournament of the year this year.

"I'm only 23.

"Does that sound like I'm over the hill?"

Pate, who scored his first pro victory in the U.S. Open last year, capped his rookie season with the title in this national championship, compiling probably the finest first-year record since Jack Nicklaus in 1962.

His Phoenix triumph that kicked off the lucrative 1977 golf tour, proved he was one of the golf's best young players. Then the injury problems occurred.

"I'd like to win again, get in the World Series," he said. And, as the defending titleholder, he was among the favorites in the field of 156 chasing the $45,000 first prize over the new, permanent site for this national championship, the 7,129-yard, par-72 Glen Abbey Golf Club course.

Johnson More Comfortable

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Johnson admits he feels more comfortable preparing for his second season as coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

Last year, at this time, he was getting ready to follow a tough act, with Paul Brown, stepping aside as head coach to concentrate his full attentions on the job of general manager.

Brown was still the center of attention during last year's annual pre-training camp luncheon, but this year, it was Johnson who fielded all the questions about the team's fortunes for the upcoming season.

"Maybe we didn't do as good a job as we should in preparing for last season," Johnson admitted, reflecting on last year's 10-4 record. "I have a much better feeling starting this season.

"We're in a much more comfortable situation."

Johnson started the season with three new coaches.

"I didn't know their full capabilities," Johnson said. "Now we've served a full year together and we've had some good sessions in the off-season."

Johnson told reporters that he plans to make a concerted effort during the preseason to find out how beneficial the "three-four" defensive alignment would be for the upcoming season.

"We've been using the basic elements for the last three or four years, but we've never concentrated on it," Johnson said.

The formation features three "down" defensive linemen and four linebackers and will help the team present a stronger pass such, Johnson said.

Johnson refused to speculate on how extensively the Bengals would move into the three-four defense, but he said its effectiveness would be fully tested during the preseason.

The crop of good defensive linemen in the recent National Football League draft helped the Bengals to begin thinking about making extensive use of the defensive formation.

"It was an unusual year in that there were defensive linemen available who could become performers almost immediately," Johnson said.

The three down linemen will come from a quartet composed of veteran Coy Bacon, Gary Burley, and the Bengals' first-round draft picks, Eddie Edwards and Wilson Whitley.

The candidates to hold down the four linebacking jobs are Jim LeClair, Glenn Cameron, Reggie Williams and Bo Harris, Johnson said.

Ron Pritchard is expected to give Williams a battle for one of those positions, the Bengals coach said, while adding that Chris Devlin, Ray Phillips and Ken Kuhn also are candidates for a job at one of those positions.

Missing from the coach's initial comments about the defensive linemen was veteran Bob Brown, who was a major factor on defense last season.

"I've heard nothing from Bob Brown in recent weeks, and I don't think anyone in our organization has heard from him," Johnson said.

"If he shows up at camp, and if he passes the physical, I think Brown is capable of playing football for us."

Brown has a history of weight problems in the off-season.

Indians Full Of Optimism For 2nd Half

BOSTON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are bursting with optimism as they head into the second half of the season.

Among those exuding enthusiasm was rookie outfielder Paul Dade, who said, "Everybody got enthused over the way Dennis Eckersley and Jim Kern pitched in the All-Star game."

"You have to think positive in this game," Dade said as he and his teammates prepared for a day-night doubleheader against the Boston Red Sox today.

"The cream always comes to the top," said designated hitter Rico Carty. "I guarantee you things will change."

"This is a young team. We can do a lot of things. We've always had a good second half since I've been here."

When it was noted that the Indians' total run production of 350 at this point ranks them fourth from the bottom among the 26 major league teams, Carty said, "Forget that."

"Let's forget the past and come into the present. We can do a lot of things on this club. Just because we haven't scored much doesn't mean we're a bad club."

"The New York Mets had a worse team than ours the year they won the pennant," he added.

Indians' President Ted Bonda, who had just returned from the All-Star game, also was full of optimism.

"We thought we had a good team when we started the season," he said, "and we still do. I was heartened Tuesday by all the comments I heard about our club in New York," Bonda said. "I don't think those baseball men were giving me a snow job. I know a snow job when I see one by this time."

Bonda doubted that Boston has enough pitching to go all the way and said he thinks Cleveland's lineup compares favorably with that of the young Baltimore club, which is leading the league.

Curses, a thousand curses on this beastly weather! I keep hoping that the two words hot and humid will disappear from the English language. I think we are fast approaching the point and perhaps have reached it where the sun worshippers have even had a bellyfull. The only happy souls over all this must be the swimming pool owners and we have to admit past years have not been all that lucrative for them (referring to the pool owners who depend on a financial remuneration so they can spend the winter in Florida).

I overheard a comment at the post office the other day that we are to have five years of extremely cold winters and sweltering summers. Let us hope fervently that someone miscounted! I will say one thing in favor of today's weather and that is the fact that no one has any appetite; therefore the grocery budget is way ahead of itself and old mom spends precious little time in the galley — whoopee! Who needs to cook when their brains are already scrambled by the "horrific" heat. Subbing on the mail routes is the only thing to get much action out of this body and that is truly a real pleasure because of the opportunity to meet the many super people.

We did get in gear and attend the fantastic wedding reception of charming newlyweds Jim and Bonnie Long Frost held at the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge in Gahanna Saturday evening. The couple exchanged vows earlier in the afternoon at a family attended ceremony at the Williamsport United Methodist Church. Lots and lots of area folks were there enjoying the scrumptious buffet, good company and beautiful music for dancing.

And, this may or may not be especially newsworthy but this gal was completely captivated by handsome young Bill Christie who just happens to be the very new husband of the former Linda Mace who is a real beauty. It never ceases to amaze me how poised, confident and truly beautiful the young people of today really are. I keep wondering why the voices of doom worry so since it seems to me we are indeed in quite capable hands. There has to be a few cold beans every now and again, I reckon. "Ain't" that so, Randi Long?

Forty-two members of Bert and Virginia Francis' family got together Sunday with a carry in dinner held at the American Legion Hall in our town. One of the highlights of the dinner was an enormous cake bearing the message "To Virginia and Bert from your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren". The cake was decorated with lovely red roses. Mrs. Pauline Tuller of Bexley, a sister of Virginia, was one of the day's honored guests also.

Participating in the games, contests and fellowship were Patrick and Louise Zborek, Joey and Christy of Clarksburg, Lon and Kathleen Rigby, Steve and Ken, Wilson and Jean Thomas, Lisa, Maria and Bonnie, Kenny Brown, Jeff Davidson, Jerry Botts, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Spangler and Brent, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Chaffin, Davie and Tara, Bob and Pat Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Francis, Billy and Bridget, Bruce Francis, Karen Kneec and Mike, Milford and Marilyn Ferguson, Melodie, Melinda, Michelle and Melissa, Betty Francis and the honored guests.

Each of the children received a prize.

Later in the day the Ferguson family and Mrs. Tuller spent some time with Mrs. Esther Skaggs (another sister of Mrs. Tuller's) who is in Brown Memorial Home in Circleville.

Bill and Garnetta Coleman and young Chad returned home during the weekend after touring parts of Kentucky and West Virginia and also visiting with family and friends. The Colemans relate the weather is the same hot and humid story in those two states, also.

Mike and Marsha McCafferty, Kelly, Kim and Kathy have fond memories of their recent Florida vacation where they did all the tourist attractions most notably Disney World, Daytona Beach, St. Augustine, Cypress Gardens, Miami Beach and they spent an entire week on the Keys and Key West which they found to be great. With the Atlantic on one side and the Gulf to the other the breezes kept it quite comfortable. Even so they had their fair share of hot weather traveling.

Like most vacationers they had a terrific time but it is good to be home again.

We say welcome to our world Masters Kyle Clark and Jeremy Tyler Spradlin. Kyle weighed in at a little over 7 lbs. and is a new brother for 3-year-old Todd and the eagerly awaited new son for Roger and Marsha Reynolds Clark of near Lima. Grandparents are Johnny and Doris Reynolds of our village and former resident Ovid Clark and the late Ruby Clark. Great grandmother locally is the ever wonderful Gertrude Schleich of whom there should be more people like. Grandmother Doris planned to be at the Clarks this week keeping a watchful eye on Todd and becoming acquainted with the latest addition to the family.

Tipping the scales at 7 lbs. 1 oz. and making his arrival at 11:53 p.m. July 17 to be greeted by mama and papa Susan and Marvin Spradlin is Jeremy Tyler. He can also be considered a birthday package for grandmother Maxine Lanman. This makes it even steven now for the Lanmans since granddaughter Nichole Dean was born on grandfather Earl's birthday. Younger brother Jason awaits the arrival home of his new brother from Fayette Memorial Hospital at the home of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Spradlin of the Derby neighborhood.

We had a brief chat with little David Gilmore at the P.O. Monday a.m. David was with mama Norma and he had just come home from a several days hospitalization at Childrens Hospital. Norma and Bill are happy to have their toddler (just beginning to take those first steps) home with them.

Gene Steinhauer is a patient at Grant Hospital and there is no doubt that he would be pleased to hear from his many friends. We understand this is his very first time ever hospitalization. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take CARE.

Think About: He who is afraid of asking is ashamed of learning.

Rhodes Bill Proposal Okayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Rhodes Administration energy proposal has been approved overwhelmingly by the House as majority Democrats ready their own priority bill to create a new Department of Energy.

A bill providing tax breaks to businesses that convert from natural gas to alternate fuels won 89-7 approval Wednesday and appeared to have a good chance of becoming the first major energy initiative by Gov. James A. Rhodes to pass both Houses.

It was sent to the Senate. Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Boardman, who carried the bill for the governor, said it offered "tools so that industries and businesses in the state of Ohio can update their facilities...Energy conversion is going to be the order of business for the next five to 10 years."

The bill would exempt from sales and use taxes equipment used to convert a facility to heating oil or any fuel other than natural gas. Once a business or industry converted, it would be eligible for property tax and corporate franchise tax exemptions on the improvements.

A vote is set next week on legislation Carney methodically shepherded through his Energy and Environment Committee.

It would set in place a Department of Energy as a fullfledged cabinet-level body, replacing the existing Energy and Resource Development Agency, which was maligned by some critics for going too little during last winter's fuel shortages.

The new department would be expected to devise a fuel allocation plan, setting priorities for utilities when they are forced to curtail various classes of customers.

The legislation also calls for a tax on use or storage of more than 10 tons of coal a year, with a sliding scale formula that hits heaviest on low sulfur coal, most of which comes from outside Ohio.

Revenue from the tax, estimated by Carney at $11 million to $13 million annually, would be used to help fund the new energy agency and develop pollution abatement equipment to cleanse Ohio coal.

"Most of it (the tax) would be charged to utilities," Carney said.

Carney's committee also recommended passage of a Senate-approved bill intended to help homeowners insulate their residences. Sponsored by Sen. Michael Schwarzwald, D-16

Strauss Plays At Kenley Players

Peter Strauss of television's Rich Man, Poor Man, proved to be both a versatile and comical actor in Kenley Players delightful comedy "Heaven Can Wait."

Being a well-written comedy, the actors compliment the play to fully develop the drama and humor. Strauss portrays a handsome prize fighter who is mistakenly called to heaven before his time. He is returned to earth in the body of a millionaire who has been murdered, and the fun begins. With his charming personality and strong personal physique, Strauss is perfect for the part.

The supporting cast is also a fine group of skilled actors and help to make the play what it is — entertaining and a delightful comical adventure.

"Heaven Can Wait" will play through Sunday at Vets Memorial Auditorium, Columbus.

Columbus, it requires public utilities to give customers information on contractors who handle insulation work and banks that make home loans for insulation.

In the event a rate-payer cannot obtain a loan, the legislation requires the utility to loan the money, provided the customers had paid his gas or electric bill.

Only One Not Guilty In Obscenity Trial

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A federal court jury — using a different standard of obscenity than its predecessors — has found all but one defendant guilty in the obscenity trial centering around the movie "Deep Throat."

The result of the trial was similar to earlier proceedings in 1973 when a U.S. District Court panel found three men and two corporations guilty of interstate transportation of obscene material.

That conviction was overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court which ruled that the jury had used the wrong guidelines in determining obscenity.

A new trial was held and eight men and four women deliberated about three hours Wednesday before handing down their decision finding all but one defendant guilty.

Guilty on two counts of interstate transportation of obscene material and one count of conspiracy to commit interstate transportation of obscene material were Stanley Marks, former operator of the Cinema X theater in Newport, Ky., Guy Weir, Harry Mohny, of Durand, Mich., and the American Amusement Co.

The jury acquitted the American News Co. of all charges against it.

The charges were based on the showing of the movies "Deep Throat" and "Swing High." Judge Carl Rubin had earlier dismissed charges based on the showing of five preview films.

No date was set for sentencing in the case. All the defendants remained free on bond pending appeal.

"Setting the obscenity issue aside, I don't think the government produced enough evidence to show interstate transportation," said Andrew Denison, a defense attorney. "That portion of their case was hanging on a nail."

The Supreme Court ruled in the earlier case that the jury at that time had failed to use the proper guidelines in defining obscenity.

The Supreme Court ruled that standards established in a 1973 high court decision should not have been used. Those standards asked whether the work would appeal to prurient interests and whether the work lacked literary, artistic or scientific value.

The previous standards defined obscenity as material "utterly without redeeming social value."

Strauss Plays At Kenley Players

Peter Strauss of television's Rich Man, Poor Man, proved to be both a versatile and comical actor in Kenley Players delightful comedy "Heaven Can Wait."

Being a well-written comedy, the actors compliment the play to fully develop the drama and humor. Strauss portrays a handsome prize fighter who is mistakenly called to heaven before his time. He is returned to earth in the body of a millionaire who has been murdered, and the fun begins. With his charming personality and strong personal physique, Strauss is perfect for the part.

The supporting cast is also a fine group of skilled actors and help to make the play what it is — entertaining and a delightful comical adventure.

"Heaven Can Wait" will play through Sunday at Vets Memorial Auditorium, Columbus.

Columbus, it requires public utilities to give customers information on contractors who handle insulation work and banks that make home loans for insulation.

In the event a rate-payer cannot obtain a loan, the legislation requires the utility to loan the money, provided the customers had paid his gas or electric bill.

Only One Not Guilty In Obscenity Trial

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A federal court jury — using a different standard of obscenity than its predecessors — has found all but one defendant guilty in the obscenity trial centering around the movie "Deep Throat."

The result of the trial was similar to earlier proceedings in 1973 when a U.S. District Court panel found three men and two corporations guilty of interstate transportation of obscene material.

That conviction was overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court which ruled that the jury had used the wrong guidelines in determining obscenity.

A new trial was held and eight men and four women deliberated about three hours Wednesday before handing down their decision finding all but one defendant guilty.

Guilty on two counts of interstate transportation of obscene material and one count of conspiracy to commit interstate transportation of obscene material were Stanley Marks, former operator of the Cinema X theater in Newport, Ky., Guy Weir, Harry Mohnhey, of Durand, Mich., and the American Amusement Co.

The jury acquitted the American News Co. of all charges against it.

The charges were based on the showing of the movies "Deep Throat" and "Swing High." Judge Carl Rubin had earlier dismissed charges based on the showing of five preview films.

No date was set for sentencing in the case. All the defendants remained free on bond pending appeal.

"Setting the obscenity issue aside, I don't think the government produced enough evidence to show interstate transportation," said Andrew Denison, a defense attorney. "That portion of their case was hanging on a nail."

The Supreme Court ruled in the earlier case that the jury at that time had failed to use the proper guidelines in defining obscenity.

The Supreme Court ruled that standards established in a 1973 high court decision should not have been used. Those standards asked whether the work would appeal to prurient interests and whether the work lacked literary, artistic or scientific value.

The previous standards defined obscenity as material "utterly without redeeming social value."

Pride In Restoring Cars Pays For Studebaker Owner

FIRST PLACE — James Diltz Sr., holds the trophy he captured from entering his Studebaker Silver Hawk in international competition.

TOPS — The Studebaker Lark VI Convertible also won first place in its class of competition at the annual International meet of the Studebaker Drivers Club. This car is also owned by Jim Diltz.

By EMILIE CALDWELL
Herald Staff Writer

Though the Studebaker has not been manufactured for 15 years, across the United States many people continue their loyalty to the car. Now a collector's item, Studebaker owners compete for prizes in antique and classic car competitions across the state and the nation.

Jim Diltz Sr., 240 Walnut Creek Pike is the owner of two of those prize winning Studebakers. Recently competing in the 13th annual International Meet of the Studebaker Drivers Club in Cincinnati, he brought home two more trophies to add to his collection of over 50 trophies from auto shows.

The Studebaker Lark VI convertible won first place in the class for Larks 1959-1960, while the Studebaker Silver Hawk also captured first place in the class for Hawks 1959-1960.

It is most unusual for one owner to capture two first places because of the close competition. Points are subtracted for any equipment added to the cars that is not original or relevant to the time period of the car. If the car has modern tires, plastic wrap on early wires, not the original paint, a bumper sticker not relevant to the production period of the car, or different interior from the original, points are deducted. For any dirt found on the car, even the engine, points are lost. Owners are asked to start the cars so that the judges may hear them running. If the car has a clock with the incorrect time or a clock that is not running, points will be subtracted. Diltz's Lark convertible had only three points deducted from its total score. The Silver Hawk lost eight points.

Over 1,000 Studebakers participated in the show, while 500 were involved in the actual competition.

Diltz completely rebuilt his Studebakers. Original parts were obtained from writing letters to old Studebaker dealers who were stuck with parts when the Studebaker line was discontinued. He bought a new engine for one of his cars from an old dealer in Southbend, Ind., but some of his parts were obtained in Circleville from Joe Moats, who handled the Studebaker line for this area.

Originally a mechanic, Diltz is now a service supervisor for Dupont, but his feeling for cars has stuck with him. Doing all his own work on his cars, he takes great pride in that part of it.

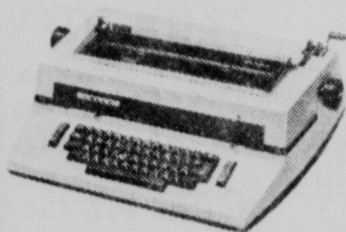

He originally had a Model 'A' Ford, but was fascinated by the Studebaker design. He feels that the Studebaker was the most advanced car of its time period, as the sloping front end design, is now adopted by most modern day cars.

July 17, at the Ohio Village Show, the Silver Hawk captured another first place and at the Kingston Geranium Festival, the Lark convertible was selected as the judges' choice. Meets and shows are held constantly in the state and Diltz and his wife, Lottie, enjoy attending them because they meet people who share their same interest in cars.

The founder of the Studebaker line in America was Peter Studebaker, an immigrant from Holland in 1736. They originally manufactured Conestoga type wagons and wheelbarrows. They became an important supplier to the U.S. Government during the Civil War and with their profits, formed a corporation. President Grant's carriage was a Studebaker. An electric car was manufactured by the Studebaker Corporation in 1899. In 1904, the first gasoline engine Studebaker was produced, but considered "clumsy, dangerous, and noisy," by John M. Studebaker, who preferred the electric car.

Sprinklers Could Have Saved Lives

BOSTON (AP) — Sprinkler systems could have saved most if not all 68 persons killed in three major prison fires in the United States and Canada this summer, says an investigator for the National Fire Prevention Association.

"If sprinklers had been in there, we might have lost a couple of people, but I'm pretty sure that would have been it," said David Demers, a fire analyst and fire protection engineer who made an on-site inspection of each of the fires.

Demers said because intense heat is needed to set the sprinklers off, they may not be activated in time to save any inmates who start fires in small cells.

He said he believed there would have been no deaths in the July 7 fire at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., which began in a washroom and claimed five lives, if the prison had been equipped with a sprinkler system.

And because the inmate who allegedly set the June 26 fire at Maury County Jail in Columbia, Tenn., was rescued, Demers said a sprinkler system probably would have saved all 42 victims there.

Demers said "there would possibly have been one death," rather than 21, in the June 21 fire at the St. John, New Brunswick, City Detention Center if a sprinkler system had been in use.

The Boston-based association, a private clearing house for fire information, did a recent study which concluded that 85 per cent of the fires in prisons were intentionally started by inmates.

The study listed four reasons: suicide, escape attempts, malicious damage and a show of force during riots.

Sprinklers Could Have Saved Lives

BOSTON (AP) — Sprinkler systems could have saved most if not all 68 persons killed in three major prison fires in the United States and Canada this summer, says an investigator for the National Fire Prevention Association.

"If sprinklers had been in there, we might have lost a couple of people, but I'm pretty sure that would have been it," said David Demers, a fire analyst and fire protection engineer who made an on-site inspection of each of the fires.

Demers said because intense heat is needed to set the sprinklers off, they may not be activated in time to save any inmates who start fires in small cells.

He said he believed there would have been no deaths in the July 7 fire at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., which began in a washroom and claimed five lives, if the prison had been equipped with a sprinkler system.

And because the inmate who allegedly set the June 26 fire at Maury County Jail in Columbia, Tenn., was rescued, Demers said a sprinkler system probably would have saved all 42 victims there.

Grain Oversupply To Force
Return Of Set-Aside Acreage

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Rebounding too well from the grain shortages of 1973, American farmers have produced so much wheat and corn they will have to return to the set-aside acreage programs, the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee says.

"We have a serious oversupply of wheat and we're about to have the same problem with corn," Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., told more than 400 delegates to the National Corn Growers Association annual meeting Monday.

The Iowa-based association has affiliate organizations in Illinois, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Virginia, and members in all 48 lower states.

The set-aside program would be similar to one in effect from 1961 to 1972, which evolved out of the land bank policies of the '50s. Farmers who participated were given government payments for diverting field crop acreage to pasture.

Foley said the details have not been worked out but the set aside would be voluntary and reasonable. Anyone refusing to participate, however, would not be eligible for federal loans.

The United States is expected to have a carryover of wheat of about 1.5 billion bushels, twice the annual domestic consumption.

Foley added: "If we have more favorable weather the next month, we are going to have an enormous corn crop — with double the carryover of last year."

Illinois Agriculture Director John R. "Jack" Block said a set-aside on wheat acreage is coming about a year late considering the large surplus. "If a set-aside does come about," he added, "it should result in farmers using more soil-conserving practices. I hope this will help save a little of our soil."

Another speaker, Myron R. Laserson, Continental Grain Co. senior vice president, predicted U.S. corn exports in the 1977-78 crop year will be about 300 million bushels less than last year's 1.65 million. Laserson said increased feed grain production by other exporting countries and a worldwide surplus of wheat caused the export decline.

Darwin Stolte, president of the U.S. Feed Grain Council, called the proposed set aside "hopefully no more than a temporary solution" to grain surpluses to be replaced by increased exports.

"I frankly think we're not ever going to see domestic consumption exceed 5 billion bushels of corn," he added, noting that the projected 1977 corn harvest is 6.33 billion bushels.

The U.S. has "traditionally looked at Japan and western Europe" as its major overseas markets, he noted, but within the past three years new potential markets have arisen: Red China, eastern Europe and the oil-producing nations.

Stolte also said the U.S. should pressure countries with unreasonable import restrictions on meat imports. "The beef industry is not operating at full efficiency," he said, "and we have not really gone after them ... tremendous red meat market."

Japan allows "an inconsequential 29,000 pounds" of U.S. beef into the country each year, Stolte said.

Tony was also the high point man in a U.S. Marine Corps physical fitness test which was won twice by his school.

Grain Oversupply To Force Return Of Set-Aside Acreage

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Rebounding too well from the grain shortages of 1973, American farmers have produced so much wheat and corn they will have to return to the set-aside acreage programs, the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee says.

"We have a serious oversupply of wheat and we're about to have the same problem with corn," Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., told more than 400 delegates to the National Corn Growers Association annual meeting Monday.

The Iowa-based association has affiliate organizations in Illinois, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Virginia, and members in all 48 lower states.

The set-aside program would be similar to one in effect from 1961 to 1972, which evolved out of the land bank policies of the '50s. Farmers who participated were given government payments for diverting field crop acreage to pasture.

Foley said the details have not been worked out but the set aside would be voluntary and reasonable. Anyone refusing to participate, however, would not be eligible for federal loans.

The United States is expected to have a carryover of wheat of about 1.5 billion bushels, twice the annual domestic consumption.

Foley added: "If we have more favorable weather the next month, we are going to have an enormous corn crop — with double the carryover of last year."

Illinois Agriculture Director John R. "Jack" Block said a set-aside on wheat acreage is coming about a year late considering the large surplus. "If a set-aside does come about," he added, "it should result in farmers using more soil-conserving practices. I hope this will help save a little of our soil."

Another speaker, Myron R. Laserson, Continental Grain Co. senior vice president, predicted U.S. corn exports in the 1977-78 crop year will be about 300 million bushels less than last year's 1.65 million. Laserson said increased feed grain production by other exporting countries and a worldwide surplus of wheat caused the export decline.

Darwin Stolte, president of the U.S. Feed Grain Council, called the proposed set aside "hopefully no more than a temporary solution" to grain surpluses to be replaced by increased exports.

"I frankly think we're not ever going to see domestic consumption exceed 5 billion bushels of corn," he added, noting that the projected 1977 corn harvest is 6.33 billion bushels.

The U.S. has "traditionally looked at Japan and western Europe" as its major overseas markets, he noted, but within the past three years new potential markets have arisen: Red China, eastern Europe and the oil-producing nations.

Stolte also said the U.S. should pressure countries with unreasonable import restrictions on meat imports. "The beef industry is not operating at full efficiency," he said, "and we have not really gone after them ... tremendous red meat market."

Japan allows "an inconsequential 29,000 pounds" of U.S. beef into the country each year, Stolte said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A drawn-out union strike against ABC has entered its 10th week with pickets still picketing, shows still taping and no new talks planned by the warring parties.

That's the gloomy word from ABC and Ed Lynch, head of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians — NABET — whose four-year contract with ABC expired March 31.

More than 1,500 NABET workers at ABC — mostly engineers, the rest cameramen, technicians and about 125 news personnel — walked off the job May 17 when contact negotiations collapsed.

Since then, ABC supervisors have filled in for them in news, sports and on the five daily soap operas and three game shows taped at ABC facilities here and in New York.

The network says they're also working or will work soon on taping "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Fish" and "Barney Miller" series at ABC's studios in Hollywood.

But it says three other shows that planned to use those studios moved elsewhere because of the strike — ABC's new "Soap" and "Three's Company" and the syndicated Lawrence Welk show, a 22-year customer.

Ironically, what NABET's Lynch calls the biggest item of dispute doesn't involve entertainment. It involves newsgathering by "daily hires" using the new, lightweight video cameras in the field.

Both sides say they agree on using these free-lance crews in covering news beyond a 125-mile radius of the TV stations ABC owns here and in New York, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and its Washington bureau.

But they disagree on how many can be used. Lynch says he wants a 20 per cent limit on the use of such "daily hires" each year, while ABC says it would make the limit 50 per cent.

Lynch sees ABC's proposal as opening the doors to the use of "daily hires" everywhere by the network. An ABC spokesman emphatically denies such is the case: "That's not true, it's just untrue."

Other items of argument include work assignments, meal periods, scheduling and the right ABC seeks to suspend employees guilty of insubordination, chronic lateness or serious errors.

There also are unresolved pay and length-of-contract items: NABET seeks a two-year pact with a 25 per cent pay hike each year, ABC wants four years with an over-all raise of almost 32 per cent.

Top basic salaries under the union's expired contract set $401 a week for engineers, $386 for news writers, NABET says.

ABC says if the union members had not struck and accepted the contract offered them, its payroll for them, including normal overtime fees, would have been approximately $1 million a week.

The last NABET strike against ABC, in 1967, lasted seven weeks, according to the union, which struck NBC for that length of time last year before agreeing on a new four-year contract.

Since the ABC walkout began, both sides have met at least 20 times with a federal mediator, Nancy Fibish, in Washington, D.C., but the last pow-wow, on July 10, produced no break-through.

The water moccasin, a poisonous snake native to the swamps of the southern United States, gives birth to live young.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): More gains indicated than you may anticipate. But there will be SOME obstacles, so pick your way alertly and cautiously, but without anxiety.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Never mind the odds against you; keep working toward your objectives. There is always a way for the imaginative, optimistic, willing worker. And you are that!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Fine influences! Enterprise, resourcefulness and initiative should spark the day and give you a brand-new outlook on all activities.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Day calls for your best judgement. You may feel "lukewarm" about some suggestions made, but look into them anyway. They COULD prove of value.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Reflexes, intuition and business acumen should be keen now. Especially favored under day's influences: research, merchandising, all business transactions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Do not pay much attention if associates seem difficult. Some persons may be "edgy" now, so don't take unseemly action personally.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Searching for offbeat avenues toward achievement could lead you astray now. Do the best you can in your own field and gains will be yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Patience will be needed in a few tricky spots but day, on the whole, has a big potential. Avoid undue haste, anxiety. You CAN deliver the goods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Several chances to do better than usual. Take advantage of all worthwhile opportunities. A good period in which to revitalize methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Admonitions for this day: Don't be so overly cautious that you lose out on advantages, and don't rely on help from anyone. This is a period when your own grit must see you through.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): An excellent day for considering new business arrangements — especially if they involve real estate or property improvements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A good day for trying to push a unique program. You will get backing from those in authority — IF you make the first move.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most idealistic of all Cancerians; progressive in your methods and usually far ahead of the times in your thinking. You would probably be unhappy in the world of business and commercialism for you tend to become disillusioned when pursuing strictly material goals. On the other hand, you find happiness in directing your lofty ideals — and ideas — toward the creative. Translate them into books, musical compositions or images on canvas and there is no limit to the heights you can attain. Birthdate of: A. Ashley Cooper, Eng. statesman.

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Gale Sayers, breakaway back of the Chicago Bears in the 1960s, is one of the new members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. They still talk in pro football circles about his incredible afternoon on Dec. 12, 1965.

The Bears were playing the San Francisco 49ers on a muddy field. Sayers scored a record-tying six touchdowns. He went in on an 80-yard pass reception, runs of 21, seven, 50 and one yards, and an 85-yard punt return. The Bears won the game, 61-20.

"It was the greatest performance I have ever seen on a football field," enthused Coach George Halas of the Bears, who coached or played with Bronko Nagurski, Ernie Nevers and Jim Thorpe.

In the United States, "the 400" is an expression used for the inner circle of higher society. It is said to have originated when Mrs. William Astor asked Ward McAlister to help her cut her annual ball guest list down to 400, since her ballroom would not accommodate more.

BEAT THE HEAT — Erik Kreifelt and Wade and Mitchell Miles cooled off Wednesday in a waterfall created by the draining of the Nicholas Drive water tank.

CAR WASH — Whether or not the city was aware of the fact Wednesday, the draining of the elevated storage tank on Nicholas Drive provided a free car wash to city residents, as one cooler motorist in the above photo can attest to. While the Herald photographer was in the area, no less than three more cars paused enroute to their destinations to partake of the cool clean water cascading out of two fire hydrants. Among the others cooling off in the steady stream were a man and his dog and several children. Wednesday's high temperature of 96 degrees tied the July 6 record to make those two dates the highest official temperatures of 1977.

Alleged Spy-Aiders Arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Two men accused of aiding Soviet bloc spies planned to use a cabin cruiser to smuggle components of the topsecret U.S. cruise missile to Soviet agents in Cuba within the next two weeks, the FBI says.

Carl Weischenberg, 33, a West German, who officials said is awaiting trial in his own country on charges of high treason and is now living in Freeport, in the Bahamas, and Carl John Heiser, 32, of Highland Beach, Fla., were arrested Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale International Airport as Weischenberg prepared to board a plane for Freeport.

They were formally charged with "acting as agents of East Germany and the Soviet Union without prior notification to the Secretary of State," a charge less severe than espionage because the government wants to expedite the case, a knowledgeable source said.

"When you have a foreign national leaving the country you want to act quickly," the source said.

The charge carries a fine of $5,000 and up to 10 years in jail.

Heiser and Weischenberg were ordered held without bond after a brief hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo in Miami. Another hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Daniel Ennis of Miami says Weischenberg and 11 other persons are awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of high treason involving sale of West German data processing materials to Soviet bloc nations.

The FBI said Weischenberg had offered Heiser $250,000 for components of the cruise missile, a pilotless weapon which can fly a pre-programmed route to its target at extremely low levels. It did not say how Heiser would have gotten such components.

President Carter has chosen the weapon as one of the United State's first-line offensive weapons of the future.

In a 14-page affidavit, the FBI said Weischenberg presented Heiser with "shopping lists" for materials, including IBM microfiche cards, manuals and tapes, Memorex computer programs, Bendix computer drive shafts and nuclear fuels.

FBI officials did not say what the various computer cards, tapes and programs contained. IBM, Memorex and Bendix are major defense contractors.

The FBI affidavit detailed dozens of alleged meetings, telephone conversations and trips to Germany by Heiser and Weischenberg dating back to April 1976.

Among other things, the affidavit lists comments allegedly made to an FBI informant by Weischenberg that the Soviets wanted to purchase uranium oxide 205, thorium 230 and other nuclear fuels "in any quantity available."

The FBI said much of the affidavit's information came from confidential informants.

The affidavit also said Heiser kept meticulous records of his transactions with Weischenberg which allegedly included payments of between $150,000 and $200,000 in the past year and a half.

Alleged Spy-Aiders Arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Two men accused of aiding Soviet bloc spies planned to use a cabin cruiser to smuggle components of the topsecret U.S. cruise missile to Soviet agents in Cuba within the next two weeks, the FBI says.

Carl Weischenberg, 33, a West German, who officials said is awaiting trial in his own country on charges of high treason and is now living in Freeport, in the Bahamas, and Carl John Heiser, 32, of Highland Beach, Fla., were arrested Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale International Airport as Weischenberg prepared to board a plane for Freeport.

They were formally charged with "acting as agents of East Germany and the Soviet Union without prior notification to the Secretary of State," a charge less severe than espionage because the government wants to expedite the case, a knowledgeable source said.

"When you have a foreign national leaving the country you want to act quickly," the source said.

The charge carries a fine of $5,000 and up to 10 years in jail.

Heiser and Weischenberg were ordered held without bond after a brief hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo in Miami. Another hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Daniel Ennis of Miami says Weischenberg and 11 other persons are awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of high treason involving sale of West German data processing materials to Soviet bloc nations.

The FBI said Weischenberg had offered Heiser $250,000 for components of the cruise missile, a pilotless weapon which can fly a pre-programmed route to its target at extremely low levels. It did not say how Heiser would have gotten such components.

President Carter has chosen the weapon as one of the United States' first-line offensive weapons of the future.

In a 14-page affidavit, the FBI said Weischenberg presented Heiser with "shopping lists" for materials, including IBM microfiche cards, manuals and tapes, Memorex computer programs, Bendix computer drive shafts and nuclear fuels.

FBI officials did not say what the various computer cards, tapes and programs contained. IBM, Memorex and Bendix are major defense contractors.

The FBI affidavit detailed dozens of alleged meetings, telephone conversations and trips to Germany by Heiser and Weischenberg dating back to April 1976.

Among other things, the affidavit lists comments allegedly made to an FBI informant by Weischenberg that the Soviets wanted to purchase uranium oxide 205, thorium 230 and other nuclear fuels "in any quantity available."

The FBI said much of the affidavit's information came from confidential informants.

The affidavit also said Heiser kept meticulous records of his transactions with Weischenberg which allegedly included payments of between $150,000 and $200,000 in the past year and a half.
